A QUARTER of a million Germans saw the Bellanca plane, Chamberlin, the pilot, and Levine in Berlin yesterday. It was a friendly crowd, all war bitterness forgotten, far better than the other trip with bayonets and cannon, that nations were eagerly planning a few years ago.

LET'S HOPE this country will henceforth keep out of Europe's quarrels. That continent, for years to come, will not be safe from war. There is danger of an outbreak now in the Balkans. Albania is complaining bitterly, threatening trouble.

YESTERDAY, a young Russian Czarist in Warsaw assassinated M. Volkoff, Soviet Minister to Poland. The assassin, Boris Koverko, nineteen years old, says he murdered Volkoff for his share in killing the Czar. That may mean trouble for Europe.

ENGLAND complains bitterly that the French secretly buy British gold to bolster the franc, thus threatening the world's financial balance.

France and England will never fight, if only because the French air fleet could destroy London a few hours after war started. But there is still bitterness everywhere.

AMERICANS should take to heart the lesson that Lindbergh and Chamberlin have taught us, and get ready to keep hostile fliers away from this continent.

AIR HEROES LOST WAY IN STORM

By A. D. TOLISCHUS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, June 8.—For the first time since he landed in Germany Clarence Chamberlin revealed today that the Bellanca plane was lost over Europe during the last lap of the trans-ocean flight with both compasses out of order.

Chamberlin told the story of the great aerial adventure to President Hindenburg, who received Chamberlin and his companion, Charles A. Levine, in audience.

"We ran into a heavy snow storm over the ocean," Chamberlin told the German president, "and tried to avoid it by rising above it, but it was hard to get up because of the heavy load of gasoline.

"We didn't get to Ireland, as we had expected, but came to Europe rather to the south of Ireland, over the English Channel.

"When we were over the continent we again hit a heavy storm and we tried to dodge it by zigzagging north and south. That is how we began to lose our bearings.

"Finally down we saw a large

TEETH MARKS OF BEACH STRANGLER ON GIRL'S HAND IS LATEST CLUE

Salisbury Beach, June 8.—Marks left by the slayer of Stella Kale on the girl's left hand were today declared by the medical examiners to be the impressions of the strangler's teeth and, carefully measured, they may result in the speedy identification of the murderer.

Arthur Williams, employer of the victim of the murder, was questioned for the third time today at police headquarters by three State detectives and Chief Smith of the local force.

The authorities admitted [illegible] found a scratch on one of the [illegible] who has been questioned and which he was asked to explain.

While the middle-aged studio owner was being questioned, the Lawrence police automobile arrived with two attractive girls who are [illegible] upon him quite well.

Mystery was added to the investigation when the Lawrence authorities also brought word that in addition to Stella's wrist watch being missing, her handbag and a sapphire ring were also reported missing by her parents in that city.

The watch and ring were worn on the hand upon which the police found the gouges identified today as marks of the slayer's teeth.

Williams, employer of the pretty Lawrence blonde who met her death on the beach late Sunday night or early Monday morning, was taken to the police station by Detective William Murray following careful questioning of two girls and two youths, all of whom, police say, threw some doubt on parts of his story of events on the night of the killing.

The officer who went to get the 23-year-old photographer found him at the little white bungalow where Stella worked by day and occupied one of the two small upstairs bedrooms at night, Williams occupying the other.

"Peggy" Gramon, a Roxbury girl; "Jimmie" Marcello of Haverhill, Fred Landry of the same city and John Salsbugh, whose father owns restaurants here and in Haverhill, are the quartet whose stories caused requestioning of the dead girl's employer.

The first two are part owners of a lunch stand next door to the studio, and the girl heard someone return to

FIN.COM. OPENS FIRE ON MAYOR'S LOAN ORDERS

The Finance Commission today opened fire on Mayor Nichols, using both barrels—one generating an investigation of the Mayor's loan order for $750,000 for a central fire station in Bowdoin square, and the other aimed at the killing of the Mayor's $200,000 loan order for streets.

It was acknowledged universally at City Hall that the Fin. Com.'s opening of a probe into the utilization of the old Revere House site for the new fire station marks the beginning of a bitter battle and one that may be carried out on determined lines if it takes all Summer.

There was much speculation over whether a public hearing will be held in the investigation.

Chairman Thomas J. Hurley of the Board of Street Commissioners spent fifteen minutes with the investigating body today.

The Commission will also call two of the three experts used by the city in determining figures to be paid for the land, amounting to

'Mary,' Coolidge's New Hippo, Reaches Hub

"MARY," a 200-pound pigmy hippo, consigned to President Coolidge by his friend Harvey Firestone, rubber king, today looked on her new master's land for the first time from the Shipping Board steamship Otho, when the vessel ended a trip from African ports at East Boston. The growth-stunted hippopotamus is one of three now in captivity.

W. H. Johnson, old-time Indian missionary before becoming an expert rubber planter at Firestone's Liberian plantation captured the specimen near Monrovia, Liberia.

3 POLICE NAB 9 GUSTIN SUSPECTS IN BURGLARY

With only two officers to aid him, Police Sergeant Stephen J. Gillis of East Dedham street station captured nine alleged members of the Gustin gang of South Boston early today when they raced into Geneseo street on a woman's alarm that burglars were there.

Four of the men arrested, Frank Wallace, Thomas Malloy, Charles La Paglia and Andrew Griffin, are charged with attempting to break and enter a barber supply house, where grain alcohol is stored on permit.

The other five, captured while Sergeant Gillis and Patrolmen Maloney and Carley had the first four in custody, were taken in an automobile nearby and are charged with being suspicious persons. They are Edward Murphy, George E. Canny, Be-

2 U. S. MEN SEIZED IN CHINESE ARMS PLOT

Shanghai, China, June 8 (A.P.).—An American lawyer, W. A. Worthington; another American, Samuel Chait, and an Italian named Javino were arrested today by the police of the International settlement here for alleged illegal dealing in arms. It is reported that the three negotiated with a Chinese "general," who really was a detective, for the sale of arms and ammunition.

The negotiations progressed until today, when they met at the "General's" house to complete the deal.

Two foreign detectives watched the proceedings through a knothole. It is alleged the accused men produced two mausers and 1,000 rounds of ammunition, upon which they were arrested and handed over to their respective consulates.

Shanghai, June 8 (I.N.S.).—After a 36-hour battle in which 2,600 men were killed and wounded according to a Nationalist communique, Nationalist troops captured Hanowang, the Northern defenders retreating toward Linching, said advices received here today.

EARL CARROLL IN JAIL; WEEPING WIFE SWOONS

Atlanta, Ga., June 8 (A.P.).—Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, entered the Federal penitentiary here today and became prisoner 24,909.

Nearly two months after he began his journey from New York to enter prison, the big steel gates closed behind him and he began serving his sentence of a year and a day, imposed on conviction for perjury in connection with his "bath tub" party.

Carroll had a collapse April 13 while en route to Atlanta and was removed from the train to Greenville, S. C., hospital.

TWENTY FLEE FIRES IN ROXBURY AND EVERETT

More than a score of persons, a majority of them children, were driven to the street by a barn fire in Everett, and an apartment house fire in Roxbury, today.

Half a dozen dwellings were threatened when fire destroyed the large barn at Nos. 21-23 Carter street, Everett, owned by Austin White. The fire ignited the dwelling at No. 19 Carter street and scorched the paint on the dwellings at No. 8 and No. 10 Hawthorne street.

Two alarms were sounded and the firemen aided the families to flee from the threatened structures. From No. 19 Carter street, Waldo Garrabe, his wife and seven children fled to safety.

From No. 8 Hawthorne street, Antone Pasquer, his wife and three children were assisted to the street, and at No. 10 Hawthorne street Joseph Grangrecco and his wife

STELLA KALE, SLAIN GIRL

PUZZLES POLICE
Josie Sabbagh of Lawrence tells a new story of happenings on night of murder.

STUDIO WHERE STELLA WORKED
New story told by the Lawrence girl says she saw Williams, studio proprietor and Stella's employer, go up the beach shortly after Stella. She was one of the last to see victim.

the studio, she declares, late Sunday night or early Monday morning. Landry, a vaudeville performer, declares he saw Williams and the girl waiting on customers in the studio as late as 11:30 Sunday night, while Miss Sabbagh asserts she saw Stella walk toward the beach, followed soon afterwards by Williams.

These statements, the authorities point out, might seem to contradict the photographer's assertion that Stella started for a walk on the beach at 9:30 Sunday night and never returned, and that he waited around the studio for her to come back and finally went to bed without leaving the place.

Landry gave names of several persons to prove that he walked toward the studio after 11 o'clock Sunday night with his dog, "Jack," and a check-up showed that he was telling the truth.

He said there were two men customers in the studio when he looked in, but who they were he does not know. Police are making an effort to learn their names.

Landry told the police that the two customers in the studio were, in his belief, being shown plates of pictures. Accordingly, the authorities asked Williams for the last pictures he took on Sunday and he gave them a plate bearing the picture of two men.

A local hotel clerk recognized the men and police went with him to Lawrence to find them. Their statements, as to the time at which they called at the studio, are being anxiously awaited.

The woman who discovered the body of the murdered girl provided the police with a new clue when she found Stella's rosary beads in a small receptacle in which were also two tiny pictures, one of herself and one of a boy.

Identification of the boy's picture may prove of great importance in solving the mystery, the police declare.

"I love you more than you ever knew."

These words, in minute script, were written on the back of the boy's picture. The face was blurred and identification may be difficult.

The discovery of the receptacle was made by Mrs. Angelina Franco, who found the murder victim's body last Monday morning while walking on the beach with her little daughter, Eleanor, aged five.

She found it in the sand a short distance from where the murder was committed. Police question that it was there all the time since the murder, inasmuch as the beach has been thoroughly searched for Stella's missing wristwatch.

If it was placed back on the beach today, shortly before its discovery, there is a new touch of mystery to the already thoroughly puzzling case.

Determination of whether or not stains found on clothing of two suspects are bloodstains is one of the important phases of the investigation. Another is the fixing of the time of the slaying, as near as possible. This may be accomplished when doctors finish their analysis of the contents of the stomach.

Dr. Timothy Leary, medical examiner for the Boston southern district, is to make a report on these things soon.

Police are interested in finding a Hampton Beach barber, who was seen at this resort on Sunday and did not return to work the following day.

The straw hat clue exploded when a Haverhill advertising solicitor came to the police station and explained that it was his. He had cast it aside after it blew into the water where a girl bather "rescued" it. It was a new hat, but too much damaged by the water for the owner to keep.

Albert White, the man arrested charged with assault on Mrs. Gladys Rand in her cottage only a few yards from the murder scene on the night after the murder, is pretty well eliminated from the murder of Stella Kale, in the opinion of the police.

White, who was held in $20,000 bail on the assault charge, told the police he was at Hampton Beach with a friend on Sunday night and remained there until early Monday morning.

He named his friend and the police questioned him. Without any possibility of there being collusion he told the same story as White had told, and the alibi places White far away from the murder scene.

Wrist Watch Is Sought in Death of Miss Kale

Salisbury Beach, June 8.—A missing wrist watch may be the key to the solution of the murder of Stella Kale and pawnshops in all cities in eastern New England are being searched for it by the police.

It is of the open-faced, white gold type, a present to the dead girl from her mother and father less than two years ago. It has seven jewels and the case number is 2,470,437, the works number, 23,323,588.

MAYOR FOUGHT BY FIN. COM. ON LOAN

$400,000. The two are Warren F. Freeman and Joseph D. Dilworth. The third, John C. Kiley, well known real estate man, is now in France.

It is known that the Commission is anxious to get at the figures which made it possible for the experts to reach the $400,000 price. These figures are said to be in the possession of the mayor.

Chairman Charles L. Carr of the Commission stated today that he felt quite sure the Commission would receive all facts and figures in the case without calling the Mayor.

A "spokesman for the administration" stated that the $400,000 figure was "just an outside price" that the purchase price would perhaps be less and that there is no personal interest in the site other than it is a good location and one picked out by the Fire Commissioner.

"To Let" signs of Warren F. Freeman adorn windows in vacant offices of the office building now standing on the land. The property is assessed for $260,000, land and buildings.

Mayor Nichols today refused any statement in connection with the loan order, stating that none is necessary.

The loan order itself is sleeping peacefully in the City Council committee on finance, where it will probably remain for at least three weeks.

On the street loan order the finance commission recommended to the City Council that the order be killed and that "the mayor be required to find the money, if needed, by transfer from unnecessary items in his budget.

PRISONER TELLS OF HIS 'CRIMES'

Worcester, June 8—Police say William H. Morse, a stenographer, admitted to them today that shorthand is only a side line with him, and that, in reality, he is a "two-gun bandit" who has held up banks and committed other crimes in the West with a care-free abandon that would make Jesse James blush.

Morse, who is also known as Edward L. Burke, was arrested after he is alleged to have given a bad check for $60 in payment on an automobile. One of the Worcester police officers casually referred to him as a "cheap thief."

This remark is said to have riled Morse, who insisted on seeing the head of the local detective force.

To this officer the stenographer is said to have boasted how he held up a bank in San Francisco, robbed a jewelry store in Detroit and committed other crimes in Cleveland and Elkhart, Ind.

The police are investigating.

the ambulance drew up before the hospital and superintended his entrance.

"The transfer was successful and he is in the same state that he has been for several weeks," the warden said after Carroll had been admitted. "The prison physician said as long as Carroll stayed in Greenville his condition probably would not improve, because of the dread of prison hanging over him."

When asked if Carroll's family would be permitted to visit him, the warden said that visitors would be permitted on recommendation of the physician, but no visitors would be allowed today.

Mrs. Carroll was near a collapse from the strain, said Norman Carroll, the producer's brother, who accompanied Earl Carroll here.

As Carroll was placed in the ambulance Mrs. Carroll tearfully bade her husband goodby, then stumbled out into the arms of his brother. She uttered a sharp little cry and then, supported by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Carroll, her head bowed, half walked, half stumbled across the tracks to a waiting cab to be taken to a hotel.

Carroll appeared emaciated and sallow-skinned. His hair was brushed straight back from his forehead, his eyes were closed and he appeared oblivious to his surroundings.

HOLDUP MAN IS GIVEN EXTRA TERM FOR HUB JOB

Charles Trippi, of Worcester, who recently was sentenced by Judge Thayer at Worcester to from 15 to 18 years for holdups in Fitchburg, was today, in Boston, sentenced to from three to five years more in the Charlestown prison. The new sentence was for carrying a revolver and the larceny of an automobile. Because of the long term imposed by Judge Thayer, Judge Fosdick ordered the additional sentence to run concurrently.

ENGINEER ASKS GOODWIN BAN BE LIFTED

Adolph A. Bartel, New Haven railroad engineer, whose automobile license was suspended by Registrar Godwin after his engine killed two men in an auto crash last February, went before the public works commission today seeking return of his license.

The crash occurred at a grade crossing i nBarnstable. Bartel was operating a gasoline locomotive. He told the commissioners he had observed all rules of the road and slowed down with his bell ringing at the crossing. Marks on that spotlite after the crash showed the auto had struck it near the rear. Frank A. Symonds, representing the Locomotive Engineers' and Firemen's organization, argued against the suspension of Bartel's license.

Bartel was found blameless at the inquest. Charles and Paul Libby of Barnstable were the men killed. Symonds told the commissioner he recognized the fact the registrar was trying to cut the death rate, but he thought Goodwin acted under a misunderstanding.

Neither Goodwin nor any of his inspectors were present. Bartel testified he had not been given a hearing by Goodwin and that his first intimation was a notice suspending his license as an unfit person to drive an auto.

A. W. Blackman, counsel for the railroad, said if anyone was penalized it should be the road and not the engineer. Michael J. Scully, steam road inspector for the department of public utilities, said the crossing was obscured by an embankment. The case was taken under advisement.

HE'S SAILING TO HELP MARILYN IN HER SUIT

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—Jack Pickford, motion picture actor, sailed on the Berengaria for Paris today to permit his wife, Marilyn Miller, stage actress, to divorce him.

Miss Miller, who preceded her husband to New York, remained in the city.

Whether Jack and Marilyn met or communicated before he left was not disclosed. He said she would sail Saturday.

"Marilyn and I," he added, "are perfectly friendly and there is nothing to argue about. She is the most lovely girl I have known; she is superb.

"Marilyn has a marvelous character and is not only agreeable but is a dandy girl."

He said in answer to a question that he had no thought of getting married again. "Let me get my divorce first," he said.

Jack was accompanied by his sister Lottie.

SHOOTING STAR ONLY 3,500,000 MILES AWAY

Two total eclipses and a comet will thrill watchers of the skies this month, the first of the three phenomena, a total eclipse of the moon, occurring June 15.

At 48 minutes after midnight on that day, the earth, coming directly between the sun and the moon, casts a shadow over the moon. The entire moon will be covered with the shadow from 2.14 a. m. until 2.35 a. m., and at 4.06 a. m. every trace of shadow will be gone.

During this eclipse, even during the period of totality, the moon will glow red, remaining plainly visible because of light refracted from the sun around the shadow.

The comet that is visible this month is known as Pons-Winnecke's. It is chiefly of interest to astronomers, being a faint, tailless object easily distinguishable only with the aid of a telescope.

For the first time in six years, this comet comes within range of the telescopes. On June 21 it passes within 3,500,000 miles of the earth, which astronomers consider "real close."

The other eclipse, a total eclipse of the sun, occurs June 29. On June 15, the earth is between sun and moon. On June 29 the moon is between earth and sun. The sun's eclipse is visible only in Europe and Asia, the shadow passing from England across the top of Europe and Asia to Alaska.

POWER SLOOP CRASHES INTO BEACH FERRY

A power sloop, with three fishermen aboard, crashed into the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn ferry "Brewster" in mid-harbor today.

The bow of the sloop hit the housing of the big paddle wheel of the ferry. The sloop was badly damaged, but was able to make its way to the Bethlehem Steel Company docks at East Boston.

The ferryboat was only slightly damaged and was able to continue in service. She was in charge of Captain Charles Anderson, going from Rowe's Wharf to East Boston when the sloop approached, coming up the harbor from the direction of the Fish Pier.

Piloting the sloop was the owner, Batista Isio, of No. 38 Lewis street, South End, and aboard the boat with him were Carlo Azziolo of Somerville and Vattaio Sardo of the North End. Captain Anderson of the ferry gave four blasts on the whistle as a signal that he would pass ahead of the sloop. At the same time he slowed down somewhat and veered to port.

Isio, when he saw the ferry slowing down, thought that the signal meant he should pass in front of the ferry. He misjudged the distance.

'MY BOOK NOT IMPROPER' SAYS SINCLAIR

Upton Sinclair, in Boston in defense of his novel "Oil," which goes on trial in Municipal court tomorrow, today vigorously defended the book against the charge that it was corrupting to morals.

"The first passage the authorities object to is on page 175," declared Sinclair. "If I had set out to write an immoral book I certainly would have entered on the subject before page 175—if for no other reason than to hold the reader's interest.

The novelist and his 25-year-old son, David, went to the office of Attorney George Roewer in the Pemberton building. After arriving they were closeted with the attorney for several hours.

A Boston book store clerk goes on trial in municipal court tomorrow on the charge of selling the book to a vice squad policeman. "There are 527 pages in the novel," Sinclair told newspapermen, "and only nine pages contain matter that is objected to. The conditions I describe among high school students are the truth. The incident was described to me by a teacher friend of my wife. I'm here to convince the authorities this book is not improper."

Sinclair will take the witness stand in municipal court in defense of the book. He promises to read the offending pages in Boston Common next Sunday, regardless of the outcome of the trial.

TAG IS CLEW IN KILLING OF INFANT

Shrewsbury, June 8.—A manufacturer's small tag, sewed to the inside of a baby's blouse, is the clue upon which Shrewsbury and Worcester police hope to run down the slayers of a four-months-old girl whose body was found floating in Lake Quinsigamond.

An autopsy proved conclusively the infant met death by drowning and that she was alive when thrown into the lake.

The child was well clad. She wore a vest, a white undergarment, dress, blue and white sweater and a blanket. The vest was the only garment, however, that bore a maker's trademark, and the police are scouring all the shops and stores where such garments are sold in an effort to trace identity of the purchasers.

The body was found a short distance below the main bridge across the lake connecting Worcester and Shrewsbury, and the authorities believe the child may have been thrown from the bridge. The place where the body was found is near an amusement resort that is visited nightly by hundreds of persons.

The baby had black hair and brown eyes.

The autopsy showed water in the lungs, while all the organs were found to be in perfect condition and there were no marks of violence.

583 Lindy Letters, First One From Waltham

Washington, June 8 (A.P.).—The first letter bearing a picture of Charles A. Lindbergh and addressed only to "Washington, D. C." reached Postmaster General New today from Waltham, Mass.

It will be delivered to the flier Saturday with thousands of other letters of greeting from all parts of the country.

This morning's mail brought 583 letters for Lindbergh, addressed in care of the postmaster general.

LYNN MAN FACES TRIAL FOR MURDER OF WIFE

Salem, June 8 (A.P.).—Trial of John Frisone of Lynn for first degree murder of his wife, Josephine, on October 26, at their home, No. 6½ Chatham street, Lynn, opened today in Superior Criminal Court before Judge Joseph F. Quinn. William G. Clark, district attorney, represents the government and Charles A. Green, Edward J. Carney and Henry Hurley appeared for the defense.

Ninety veniremen have been summoned from which jurors are being selected. Judge Quinn announced the jurors will be allowed to go home after each day's session.

HUB FLIER TO GREET LINDY IN CAPITAL

trust fund, the income from which would be placed at the disposal of the aviator and his mother during their lives has been rejected by Lindbergh.

This was disclosed today at the War Department, where it was said Secretary Davis had been requested to serve as head of a committee to receive popular subscriptions to make up the fund.

The proposal was placed before the secretary by Louis K. Liggett of Boston and Joseph W. Wear and George Brooke of Philadelphia.

Mr. Liggett was cabled to the aviator in London and he replied expressing his appreciation but declining the gift.

It was proposed to receive small subscriptions from the public to build up a fund whose income would be turned over to Colonel Lindbergh and his mother for their lifetime. After their deaths the proceeds would have been used in the furtherance of aviation and in the care of families of aviators who lost their lives in developing the science of flight.

Hub Flier to Carry City's Invitation to Lindbergh

As emissaries of Mayor Nichols and the official city of Boston, Capt. Gardiner H. Fiske and Maj. Charles H. Woolley will fly to Washington Friday to invite Col. Lindbergh to the Hub.

On Saturday they will present a letter written by the Mayor to the famed transatlantic flier. They will leave Boston Friday at 10 a. m. in a Douglas 02 plane, stopping at Mitchell Field, L. L, and arriving in Washington at 3 p. m.

Mayor Nichols' letter to Lindbergh follows:

"This invitation will be presented to you by my personal representatives, Capt. Gardiner H. Fiske, vice-chairman of the Municipal Air Board, and Major Charles H. Woolley of the Massachusetts National Guard, who have, at my request, flown from Boston to Washington for the purpose of renewing in the most emphatic way the cordial greetings of the City of Boston.

"They will say to you that the City of Boston, in the pride of its traditions and in the romance of its great history is most anxious to have you as its guest on June 17, or at any other time that you may find it convenient.

"You have so many friends and admirers in this city that this invitation is presented in the name of all of our citizens, great and small. The last great city in America from which you departed upon your heroic flight, was the City of Boston. It ourhts to be one of the first to be given an opportunity to extend to you a true American welcome."

Windows at Premium for New York's "Lindy" Parade

New York, June 8 (A.P.).—Windows facing Fifth avenue, main route of the proposed New York parade in honor of Colonel Charles Lindberg, were at a premium today.

Members of the Fifth Avenue Association—merchants and building owners along the avenue, were besieged with requests, many offering fancy sums, for standing room, sitting room or any kind of room that would give one a view of the parade.

Hotels with windows facing Fifth avenue have been swamped with requests from all parts of the country for rooms overlooking teh avenue.

"It will be the greatest crowd in New York's history," one member said. "We'll be just able to look after our friends, and no more."

The Mayor's office has received hundreds of out-of-town requests for seats in Central Park, where Governor Smith will pin a medal on Colonel Lindbergh and in the reviewing stand at Twentyithird street, where Broadway and Fifth avenue cross.

Lindy Will Arrive Off U. S. Friday Night

(By Radio to I.N.S.)

Aboard U. S. S. Memphis, June 8.—Captain Lackey of the Memphis announced today that President Coolidge would not be kept waiting for the arrival of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, hero of the first New York to Paris flight.

The Memphis will arrive at Cape Henry at 6 p. m. Friday night, if not earlier.

"We are making 22 knots an hour and are bringing Lindbergh home as we promised, on time," said Captain Lackey.

Lindbergh was up earlier than usual today and with Captain Lackey went on the bridge and experimented with a sextant, observing that he might have used such an instrument on his flight if the had known how.

Lindbergh had luncheon today in the warrant officers' mess and tonight will dine with the chief petty officers.

With the Memphis in the Gulf Stream, Lindbergh spent a busy afternoon watching for sharks.

He bothers little with hundreds of messages that continue to pour in offering him all sorts of contracts and invitations. He had 38 messages awaiting him at breakfast today.

Mrs. Lindbergh Declines Offer of Special Car

Detroit, June 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh is going to Washington with as little ostentation as possible to greet her son, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, when he arrives on the U. S. S. Memphis Saturday.

She let it be known today she has declined offers of a special car and will travel as a regular Pullman passenger.

Washington Will Quit Work at 12:30 for Lindy

Washington, June 8 (I.N.S.).—Like a snowball on a down grade, the Capital's celebration of "Lindbergh Day" next Saturday grew steadily in proportions today.

There is now no question but that the Atlantic flier will receive the greatest reception ever accorded any visitor to the Capital in history. Presidents and potentates might well envy the welcome that will be extended to him.

Business houses in the Capital generally will close at 12:30 o'clock Saturday, giving thousands of employes an opportunity to participate in the celebration. All government employes will be released at 12 noon, and to thse thousands will be added other thousands of visitors, attracted fro mall parts of the country.

ALLSTON MAN AND WIFE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Mary C. Leahy of Mansfield street, Allston, lost the top of a finger on the left hand and her husband, John Leahy, sustained a severe cut on the head when an automobile in which they were riding was in collision with an automobile truck, operated by Oonald N. Parkinson of Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, at Broadway and Arlington Brook Parkway, West Somerville.

The Elevated guard just escaped jail three years ago through an the bread and cake when he went agreement by counsel under which to work, leaving his family with no he has paid Mrs. Gefen $20 a week food for the day, that he ousted since for her and the children's support.

When the old court actions were going on, Gefen was repeatedly referred to by his wife's counsel as "the meanest man in the world." It was alleged that he locked up penury.

'MEANEST MAN' SENTENCED ON WIFE'S PLAINT

Harry Gefen, a guard on Elevated trains, often characterized in Roxbury court as "the meanest man in the world," was in again today after three years, and was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction for non-support of his wife and two children.

The sentence by Judge Hayden came when Gefen, through his counsel, declared he could not pay his wife an additional $2 a week, making her weekly money $22 a week.

Gefen asserted the impossibility because of the fact that the Elevated road has laid off 150 men and he might be laid off.

"We are dealing with today and not with the future," said Judge Hayden in fixing the sentence when Gefen's lawyer said an appeal would be taken in the event of sentence.

Pending action on the appeal, Gefen was ordered by the court to pay his wife $1 a week additional anyway.

How much Boston people wanted The Gilchrist Plan is shown by the crowds in

The Friendly Store

Faster, by far, than these editorials can report progress, Gilchrist Plan Charge Accounts are being opened by thrifty people at "The Friendly Store."

Even in the very few hours it takes to set up one of these editorials in type, and print it in the newspaper, dozens and scores of our friends come to Gilchrist's and take advantage of

THE GILCHRIST PLAN

Our Charge Account Manager, although well accustomed to serving crowds of people every day, has nevertheless been obliged to open an overflow office and to train new assistants. For wherever thrifty, ambitious people meet, they are talking about the economy and convenience of The Gilchrist Plan and are telling their friends.

If you know the size of the crowds who gather for a ticket sale for some famous Boston football game, or a popular concert, or a World Series baseball game, you can imagine the scene in Gilchrist's Charge Account Department.

Fortunately, things have been so organized by now that you can secure your Gilchrist Pass Book without delay. And when you have it, you can budget all your purchases, and make your money go further and buy more than ever before. Follow the crowds to

'GUILTY' IS PLEA OF GENTLEMAN BURGLAR

Mineola, N. Y., June 8 (I. N. S.)—Arthur Barry, alias Arthur B. Gibson of Worcester, Mass., who confessed he participated in the robbery of the Jesse Livermore home at Kings Point, L. I., pleaded guilty in court today to a charge of first degree grand larceny.

Police are seeking "Boston Billy" Williams, alleged "brains" of the Barry gang.

Barry confessed he and Williams were the two "gentlemen burglars" who took $92,700 in gems from the home of Jesse L. Livermore, at King's Point, L. I., May 29, while politely holding their victim and his wife at bay with revolvers.

OTHER NOTABLES ROBBED.

Police will endeavor to link "Boston Billy" through Barry with robberies at the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at Pocantico Hills; those of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Donahue at Hotel Plaza, and William C. Durant, at Deal, N. J.; the Joshua Cowden home near Port Washington, L. I., while the Prince of Wales was being entertained there, and two recent Ritz-Carlton robberies, in which Mrs. P. A. B. Widener, 2d, and Mrs. Brorg Dahlberg were the victims.

WOMAN RELEASED.

The last trace of "Boston Billy" was when he checked out of a Manhattan hotel last Monday.

Mrs. Anna Bilken, also known as "Mrs. King," who was detained at the time of Barry's arrest, was released in $2,500 bond as a witness. Police do not believe she has any knowledge of "Boston Billy," although they assert she was in love with Barry.

GIRL KING BEN SCORNED KILLED SELF, IS CLAIM

St. Joseph, Mich., June 8 (A.P.)—Story of the suicide of a girl member of the House of David colony, following a reprimand from Benjamin Purnell, leader of the cult, was related on the stand in the State's dissolution suit against the colony today. Mrs. Ruth Wade Wuerth, formerly a preacher for the colony, testified Eliza Murphy drank poison after Purnell called her a "scorpion" and sent her to High Island because she accused him of mistreating her.

Mrs. Wuerth testified Jessie Wheeler, another colony member, died at High Island, where she had been sent after incurring Purnell's displeasure.

MAN'S LIFE LENGTHENED 18 YEARS IN THE PAST 40

Philadelphia, June 8 (A.P.)—Man's span of life has been increased about 18 years in the last 40 years by medical knowledge, according to Dr. Willard C. Rappleye, director of study on the commission of medical education of the American Association of Medical Colleges.

Speaking today at the 75th commencement of the Women's Medical College, Dr. Rappleye warned there was an alarming decrease in young doctors in small communities and that the annual number of medical graduates would have to be increased about 29 per cent. to keep pace with the growth in population.

SLAYING BRINGS WAR DEMAND IN RUSSIA

Moscow, June 8.—A storm of indignation has broken throughout Russia as the result of the assassination of the Russian minister, M. Wolkoff, in Warsaw.

The Foreign Office is using its efforts to hold public indignation in check and is disregarding some more or less heated demands for an immediate declaration of war upon Poland.

The Russian press blames Great Britain for the attack and is far more bitter towards the British than towards the Polish people or the assassin. Peace hangs upon the edge of a precipice and the "assassin's hand was directed by another," according to some newspapers.

WIFE OF DEAN ATHEARN DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Florence Athearn, whose husband is dean of the Boston University School of Religious Education and Social Service and whose son is also on the faculty, died today at the New England Deaconness Hospital and out of respect all senior week social activities of that department of the university were canceled.

Her death followed an operation performed about two months ago. She was fifty-five years old and was the wife of Dean Walter S. Athearn for thirty-three years, their marriage in 1894 following a friendship which began in childhood.

Her son, Clarence Athearn, is a research associate on the faculty of the school of which his father is dean. A daughter, Gertrude Elizabeth Athearn, assistant director of the Ruggles Street Nursery School, also survives Mrs. Athearn.

Funeral services will be conducted on Friday at the Church of Christ, Everett, where Mrs. Athearn was a prominent member. Before her marriage she was a teacher in Iowa. She was a native of Maryville, Mo. The family resides at No. 54 Converse street, Malden.

Venerable 'Bill' Duffy Awaits Trinity Grads

Hartford, Ct., June 8 (A.P.).—When "Bill" Duffy, janitor emeritus, passes tobacco and lemonade to Trinity College seniors at class day exercises, June 18, he will be performing an honor duty that he and only one other man have done at every one of the college's 101 commencements.

Bill's predecessor was "Professor Jim," otherwise James Williams, an ex-slave. They have spanned in their service the entire 104 years of the college's existence.

Bill's hands tremble now so much that he daren't fill the lemonade glasses to the brim as he once did, but when the seniors are in their morris chairs under the college elms for their last undergraduate ceremony he will be there wearing his best black suit, winged collar, derby hat and white gloves.

First he will pass churchwarden pipes to each member, then go round with tobacco and matches and follow the smokers with lemonade. Throughout the exercises he will see that no senior's pipe is empty and no glass unused.

Bill arrived in the United States from his native Ireland, May 13, 1870, and three days later applied for work at Trinity. He got the job and immediately set out to become Trinity's best known tradition. Professor Jim was still monarch of the campus, but he retired in 1874 and died in 1878, his mantle falling upon Bill's shoulders.

Soon Bill became indispensable at all Trinity functions and games to make a dance complete and shake hands with every player before a football game.

At Wesleyan baseball games Bill always pitches the first ball, and this year his 77-year-old arm was as good as ever.

When Commencement week begins on June 17, Bill will greet every returning alumnus, raising his hat and extending his gnarled, shaking hand while he calls the alumnus by name—and not a living graduate will Bill forget.

CARRIE M. HALL WINS AGAIN

San Francisco, June 8 (A.P.)—Carrie M. Hall was unanimously nominated yesterday for re-election as president of the National League of Nursing Education.

Miss Hall is one of teh best known nurses in the country. She is superintendent of nurses at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Miss Hall

During the war she was named chief nurse of the American Expeditionary Forces. She had gone as chief nurse of the Harvard Unit Base Hospital No. 5.

For her war service she was presented with the "Medaile Reconnaisance Francaise," accompanied with a citation by President Millerand for the French government.

Miss Hall was born in Nashua, N. H., the daughter of the late John K. Hall for many years a Boston & Maine Railroad agent.

FINED $250 IN RUM CHASE

John J. Hennessey of Huntington avenue, Back Bay, today was held for the Grand Jury in $3,000 bail by Judge William J. Day in the South Boston Court on a charge of larceny of an automobile loaded with grain alcohol from persons unknown. On charges of illegal transportation of liquor, operating without a license and refusing to stop on command of an officer he was fined a total of $250. He paid.

On the morning of May 21, Hennessey was arrested by Patrolmen DeNatale and Fraher of the City Point Station after a chase during which several shots were fired by the officers.

URGES CITY BUY HARBOR BOAT

A municipally owned sightseeing steamer in which visitors could be taken about Boston harbor was urged on Mayor Nichols today by Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter Mr. Davis pointed out that virtually every other port in the United States and a majority of European ports maintain municipal steamers on which visiting business men and others interested in port development can see harbors.

Mr. Davis said when visiting Point Station after a chase during which several shots were fired by the officers.

X-Ray Finds "Time" and Doctor Pulls It From Girl, Six

Lowell, June 8 (A.P.).—An unusual operation was performed at St. John's Hospital here when Dr. George A. Leahey removed a toy watch from the esophagus of six-year-old Mary Dery.

The child had swallowed the toy and it was found necessary to operate in order to save her life.

The operation, known as esophagotomy, was performed after the watch had been discovered by the X-ray.

TO END RADIO INTERFERENCE

Washington, June 8 (A. P.)—The Radio Commission will launch program immediately to stop interference between broadcasting stations, Commissioner Bellows today informed President Coolidge.

He said the Commission plans, which are to be announced soon, would provide three means of eliminating interference, by changing the wave length, by cutting the power of certain stations and by dividing the time of stations.

The Commissioner also emphasized that the new allocation of wave lengths would serve only as a basis for a permanent allocation which would be worked out after a thorough test of the present system.

20 DRIVEN OUT BY 2 FIRES

and two children were aided from the house by firemen.

At No. 16 Fernboro street, Roxbury, Mrs. Mollie Lalkowitch was alone in her apartment with her two sick children, Estelle, five, and Stanley, two, when fire broke out in the building. The mother carried the little ones through smoke-filled halls to the street, where she collapsed from the exertion and excitement. The fire started in the basement of the building.

TOPSFIELD HAS DEATH TRAP CROSSING

Death constantly lurks over the unprotected grade crossing where the Boston & Maine tracks cross the Newburyport turnpike, near the Topsfield fair grounds, in the town of Topsfield.

An antiquated bell signal system and a set of easily mistaken red lights are all that protect the speeding motorists against the dangers of this death-trap.

The State police who patrol the Newburyport turnpike, and the people who live in the vicinity of the Topsfield fairground, almost daily see motorists escape death by a hair's breadth.

NO MORE TRAVELLED ROAD.

There is no more travelled road in New England than the Newburyport turnpike. It is notorious for the speeding of motorists over its smooth stretches.

On the Boston side of the grade crossing a house and the garage of J. J. Case shut off all view of the crossing from the motorist.

On the opposite side, where there is a small freight yard, the freight cars that are standing in this yard four out of five days obstruct the vision from that direction. There have been many terrible accidents at this crossing, yet no watchman has ever been provided.

SIGNAL CONFUSING.

T. E. Case, brother of the garage owner, observes the passing trains daily. He sees the menace to speeding traffic.

"The bell signal," said Mr. Case, "is extremely confusing. The bell rings when the train is far away. The motorist stops, looks up the track and then speeds across. Other cars following, see the first motorist cross. They do the same thing. That there are not more serious accidents is remarkable.

"Not long ago a heavy truck and a train crashed on this crossing. The garage and house hide the crossing on one side, the freight cars hide it on the other. Motorists going to Newburyport speed over the tracks to get a start up the steep hill ahead. It certainly is a spot that is filled with great danger. There are four passenger trains a day in addition to the freight trains. We are always looking for something to happen."

The Boston Evening American is anxious to reduce this peril as much as possible and calls on the public to help.

If you have any grade crossing in your neighborhood or elsewhere which you consider unnecessarily hazardous, or if you have had a personal experience, kindly forward such information to the Grade Crossing Editor of the Boston Evening American, No. 8 Winthrop square, Boston.

OUTRANK U. S. IN PARLEY

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

Washington, June 8.—Outranked and outnumbered by both the British and Japanese delegations, the American delegation to Geneva will enter the three power naval conference June 20 handicapped at the outset and none too hopeful of the outcome.

Canada's announcement that one of its delegates would be the Canadian minister of justice only served to keep alive the speculation in the federal city regarding the administration's reason for refusing to send to Geneva a single member of the Cabinet, an ambassador to one of the great powers, a member of either house of Congress, a distinguished jurist or a delegation that in any particular can be ruled at home or abroad as the equal of the strongest at Geneva.

The only explanation that members of the diplomatic corps are able to offer their home governments is that the administration is fearful of the effect upon its political fortunes at home which the Geneva deliberations may have.

For that reason it may be that the American delegation to Geneva has been limited to one career diplomat and one naval officer, on whom the full blame can be put in case the conference ends either in a diplomatic defeat or a naval disaster for the United States. In other words, Ambassador Gibson and Admiral Jones can be held responsible without involving the political fortunes of the administration.

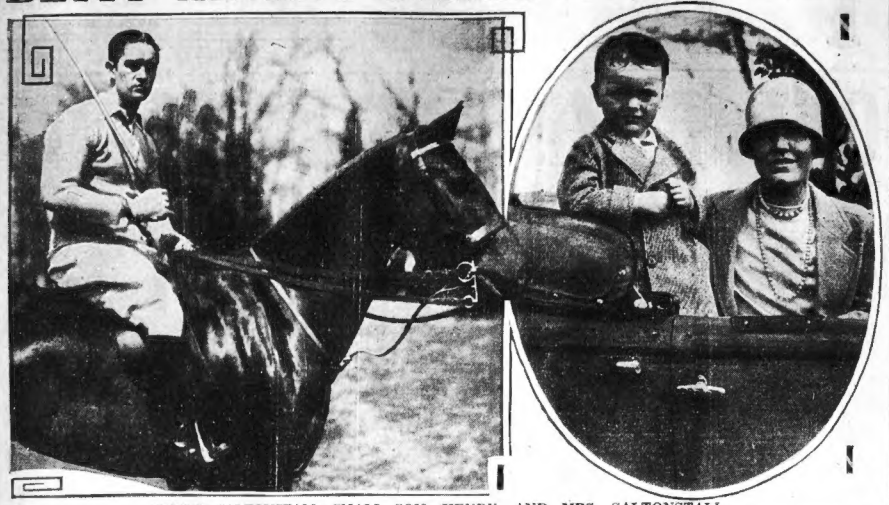
BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY



PHILIP SALTONSTALL, SMALL SON, HENRY, AND MRS. SALTONSTALL

Mr. Saltonstall, one of Dedham's foremost polo players, is not a whit more enthusiastic as a performer than his wife and small son are as spectators. The latter are ever in the gallery whenever "Daddy" rides. (Boston Evening American Staff Photograph.)

Country Club Races on June 15 and 17 Engaging Attention of Horse Loving Public in and Around Greater Boston

MENTION OF THE "COUNTRY Club Races" seems to be on every tongue. And to judge from the intense advance interest the two days of racing at famous old "Clyde Park" on June 15 and 17 will equal if not outshine the two days last year, when the "Races" came so brilliantly back into their own, Royalty condescended to lend the aura of its presence and Society was out en masse.

THE "RACES" ARE VASTLY popular. First and foremost, it is "the thing" to do. Secondly, the Eastern Horse Club Governors are bringing together a brilliant field, and, thirdly, ever so many weighty purses and important racing honors go to whichever horses flash under the wire in the lead. Altogether, given a perfect day and an enormous throng, the Races furnish a spectacle worth traveling miles to see. It's New England's Belmont Park and Grand National rolled into one.

ALMOST TO A MAN, AND certainly to a woman, Society will have a large place in the picture. Every box, with very few exceptions, has been allotted to a list that reads distinctly Social Register-ish. Reservations for luncheon in the unpretentious clubhouse are mounting rapidly in number. And, pictorially, Madame and Mademoiselle, tonged out in gladsome Summer raiment, will adorn the scene as perfectly as though for a June wedding.

HARRY WORCESTER SMITH of Lordvale, a regular at important racing events, will be on hand to do the honors at a luncheon at the Club. The Davenport Browns have reservations for a large party, and so have the Parker Converses. Merrill Griswold is planning to be host to a dozen or more. Alexander Steinert has a group, and so has Newell Bent. Dr. William F. Graves has a reservation for ten.

ON A DAY OR SO AGO AUGUSTUS P. Goodwin, John H. Macomber and Bayard Tuckerman gave a luncheon, as Eastern Horse Club potentates, to start things merrily on their way, and make known certain interesting details. It's quite a trio, this of Messrs. Goodwin, Macomber and Tuckerman, and with their lead the two days are bound to go with a bang.

SAILING IN LATE JUNE FOR their usual Summer of European travel, Mr. and Mrs. Chester D. Johnstone of Providence join the annual exodus of Smart Set people for the other side. Mr. Johnstone, it was, who helped put over the recent Jacobs Hill Hunt Horse Show so splendidly. Already plans are underway for next year's show, which the Providence set proclaims will reach even greater heights than this year's.

THE JOHNSTONES WILL BE in the grand stand on June 15 when the flag flashes for the first race, and throughout the two days' spectacle will be in close attendance, like the ardent sports people they are. Mrs. Henry G. Vaughan, wife of an Eastern Horse Club member, comes back from a short European journey, just in time to be in the Vaughan box at the races. She arrives in New York today on the steamship France.

BETWEEN POLO AT DEDHAM and polo at Myopia, devotees of this stirring sport, both participants and gallery, find much to please them. Out at Dedham Philip Saltonstall is regularly one of the Dedham Country and Polo Club four to meet a Harvard team, while at Myopia the regulars, East, McKean, Rice and others, also meet wearers of the Crimson. Mrs. Philip Saltonstall had her small son, Henry, in her motor at Dedham, both much interested when Mr. Saltonstall appeared on the field on his favorite pony, "Radio."

GROOM IS TOO ILL TO WED

The wedding of Frederick Rasmussen of Quincy, Tech graduate, to Miss Helen Folwell, Vassar graduate, of Montclair, N. J., which was to have taken place Saturday has been indefinitely postponed.

"Illness of the bridegroom" is the reason for the postponement given by Mrs. A. Prescott Folwell, mother of the Miss Folwell, the announcement coming from the Folwell home in New Jersey.

Mrs. Folwell refused to elaborate upon her statement except to say that the condition of the Quincy man was "not dangerous," but she would not discuss the nature of the ailment that suddenly wrecked the plans for the wedding.

The engagement was announced a month ago. Mr. Rasmussen, who graduated from Tech in 1919 is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Rasmussen of Quincy. Paul Rasmussen, a brother, was to have been the best man at the wedding.

planes, carrying mail parcels and passengers in peace, ready to take on machine guns in war, would be the best investment this rich nation could make.

THE GREAT thing for prosperity is credit which stimulates sales, business and prosperity. It is the moving dollar that helps, not the stagnant dollar. Mr. Hewitt of Baltimore, vice-president of Retail Credit Men's Association, says we have spent so far in 1927 forty-two thousand million dollars in retail purchases, half of it on credit. Without that spending of twenty-one billions on credit, prosperity would look peaked.

PAYNE WHITNEY, son of William C. Whitney, and Flora Payne Whitney, was a good man seeking to use wisely his large fortune, exceeding probably two hundred millions.

He leaves a great sum, thirty to fifty millions at least, to each of three friends. Gifts to friends rarely appear in rich men's wills, few of them, perhaps, find it hard to name real friends.

IT WAS not so with Payne Whitney, and it may be said with certainty that the three men remembered so generously, would far rather have their friend restored to them than have his money.

WHAT BROKERS call "hectic trading" Wall Street again experienced yesterday, many stocks going higher than ever before. General Motors again broke its price record, also old-fashioned Western Union climbing to unheard of heights. Long ago, Russell Sage, of many millions, said to this writer, "Everybody has at least one chance in his life, buy Western Union at 60. Don't miss your chance when it comes." Yesterday it sold at 167¼. This writer has seen it at fifty more than once.

IN RUSSIA the Central Administration of Orgpu announces the shooting, on May 31, of "a batch of workmen of a co-operative factory." The men were shot without trial for "trying to intimidate Russian justice."

Even under proletarian government, so called, the proletariat gets rough handling some times. The head bosses and directs the feet, not always letting the feet know it.

Pope Girl Asks Part of McClintock's Cash

Chicago, June 8 (I.N.S.)—Miss Isabelle Pope, fiancee of the late Billy McClintock, today filed suit for the same share of the $1,000,000 estate as she would have received had they been married. William D. Shepherd, McClintock's foster father, was accused in the suit of having [illegible] the marriage while the young millionaire was in a hospital [illegible] from an attack of typhoid fever which ultimately caused his death.

BELLANCA FLIERS GREETED BY GERMAN PRESIDENT

city and went down to fifteen feet above the ground to orient ourselves. It was Dortmund, but we thought it was Bremerhaven. For that reason we flew considerably to the south and that is why we missed Berlin and finally landed at Kottbus.

"Once we had lost our orientation it was impossible to pick up our direction, because, though we had taken two compasses, both got out of order.

"One went out of commission over the ocean and the other one after we were over the continent, so that we were finally without any compass at all and the skies were too hazy for us to find our way."

The President's reception to the fliers took place in the presidential mansion.

Although the journey from the American embassy to the presidential palace is but a three-minute drive, the crowds made it impossible to make much progress in Ambassador Schurman's car.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throaty "hochs."

At the entrance to the presidential palace there was a crowd of 2,000 and at the approach of the two Americans they broke through the line holding up the Ambassador's car for several minutes.

Two steel-helmeted Reichswehr soldiers, standing on guard at the entrance to the palace, snapped to attention and saluted as Chamberlin, laughing and smiling, acknowledged all the greetings while Levine looked straight ahead, apparently somewhat embarrassed by the demonstration.

President Hindenburg, with Secretary Meissner, was awaiting the guests just inside the palace doors and greeted them cordially as Ambassador Schurman introduced them. The President extended his felicitations to the fliers and lauded their achievement.

The two fliers were probably the most informally dressed persons ever received in presidential audience in Germany. Levine wore a striped business suit and Chamberlin was attired in a flying jacket and plus-fours, the same garb he had worn across the Atlantic.

President Hindenberg gave each of the fliers his autographed photograph, in a silver frame.

The aviators spent half an hour with the President and on leaving the palace were again besieged by the crowds.

The President displayed great interest in their flight and questioned them at length. He expressed the hope that their audacious deed would be a forecast of further rapprochement between the two great peoples."

The length of the Americans' stay here is problematical. It is certain, however, that they will remain here for about a week or, if they make trips beyond the city, they will return here.

Mrs. Chamberlin and Mrs. Levine, wives of the air voyagers, are coming here to meet their husbands and it is possible that Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin, mother of the pilot, will come to meet her son in answer to his invitation transmitted over the trans-Atlantic Radio Telephone yesterday.

Face Busy Program

Chamberlin and Levine were invited to be honor guests at a tea given by Chancellor Marx this afternoon to meet high German officials. Tonight Ambassador Schurman will give a formal dinner at the Embassy in honor of the airmen. Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans have been invited.

Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the fliers at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning and on Friday they will be the guests of the city of Berlin at a reception at the City Hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict in dates. The American Club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlon Hotel Friday night.

Herr Wilhelm Koch, Minister of Transport in the Marx Cabinet sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the same evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

Officials of the Lufthansa Company—Germany's great commercial air transport enterprise—will entertain the aviators at a dinner Saturday evening.

Want to See Palace

In between these numerous honorary social events the Americans will be sightseeing. Both expressed a desire to visit Potsdam and see the palace of the former Kaiser.

In addition to the numerous congratulatory messages gifts of many kinds are being received at the embassy. The printed report that both Chamberlin and Levine had expressed a preference for Pilsner beer led to numerous gifts of this beverage.

The high interest of the German people in the flight and the men who made it was evidenced today by the crowds which gathered close to the American embassy and which struggled to get a view of the Americans when they went aboard in the streets.

"It was certainly a great reception," said Levine, referring to the arrival of the Columbia at Tempelhofer flying field, when 150,000 persons roared themselves hoarse with shouts of welcome.

It was a sincere and whole-hearted welcome and the Americans told Ambassador Schurman that they were touched by the sincere admiration and friendship of the Germans.

Austrian Ambassador Felix Frank has invited Chamberlin and Levine, in the name of the Austrian government, to visit Vienna.

The fliers said today that they will fly to Vienna on Sunday.

Schurman's Message

Ambassador Schurman, replying to a congratulatory message on the flight of the Columbia from Foreign Minister Stresemann, today sent the following message:

"The wonderful reception these American airmen have been accorded in Germany and the enthusiastic appreciation this welcome has awakened in the hearts of my fellow-countrymen leave no room for doubt that an outstanding result of this great feat is the tightening of the bonds of friendship and good will which happily exist between our two peoples."

THE GANG'S NOT QUITE ALL HERE

GUSTIN HENCHMEN ROUNDED UP BY ONLY THREE POLICE

Members of the Gustin gang of South Boston rounded up by three police when a woman gave the alarm of an attempt to burglarize a South End place where alcohol is stored. Police said they caught four men in the alley. Five were captured nearby. All are held under charges.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI TO GET CHAMBERLIN'S AUTOGRAPH

Berlin, June 8 (A.P.).—America's new aerial heroes, Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, were up fairly early this morning prepared to undergo the round of ceremonies of which yesterday's welcome at Tempelhofer air field was but the beginning.

Although they did not retire until late, they were up at 8:15. Chamberlin was still in the tub when the first newspaper men got in touch with Levine.

"We didn't get to bed till the wee hours of the morning," he said. "I don't know just when, but it was already daylight. We were so busy going through the hundreds of cables that it was very late before we went to sleep."

Asked which messages interested him most, Levine said:

"It would be a long story to tell you all that, but I will say that a message which interested me greatly was that from Chamberlin's Dad. I'll dig it out for you later."

They Got Their Beer

Then, turning questioner himself, he asked: "But now tell me, is it really true that Mrs. Chamberlin and Mrs. Levine are on the way over?"

When assured that they had sailed from New York for Germany, he expressed great satisfaction.

The interview at one stage became a wild autograph scramble when scores of newspapermen rushed to the fliers presenting cards and pens and requesting their signatures.

Chamberlin was about to quit writing when an Italian newspaperman asked him to autograph a picture, saying: "It's for Mussolini."

"If that's the case I'll sign with pleasure," said Chamberlin.

By 10 o'clock this morning both fliers were ready to meet the newspapermen and emerged smiling from their private apartments in the ballroom. They were clad in the clothes they wore on their great trip, but looked fresh despite their short night's rest.

Hear From De Pinedo

When someone asked whether they had found the Pilsener beer provided for them by the Czecho-Slovakian minister, Levine replied:

"You bet—not only one case, but several."

Chamberlin, answering a question as to his raiment, said his wife was "bringing along my clothes by slow freight," and added:

"I suppose we'll have to do some shopping here. You see, we left without even tooth brushes. Our business was to carry juice, not glad rags."

To questions as to whether he was superstitious, Chamberlin said that, like Lindbergh, he would just as soon start a flight on Friday the 13th.

"Of course," he said, "we took a number of good luck pieces of various sorts just to please our friends, but we didn't believe in any of them."

Among the cable messages most pleasing to Chamberlin was one forwarded through London from Commander de Pinedo, the Italian long-distance flier, now in the Azores.

During a pause in the questioning, Chamberlin said: "When I wish I were back in that comparatively quiet hotel room in Kottbus.

"Yesterday afternoon, after you fellows left, I had a chance to autograph a few postcards myself to send to friends and well-wishers back home. I hope they got off in time to make the next mail boat to the United States."

Levine, who had been industriously signing cards for the correspondents, smilingly remarked: "I hope nobody will try to collect on us if we have been signing I. O. U.'s inadvertently."

Before further questions could be put, members of the embassy staff cut the interview short and rushed the aviators off to their private apartment, although they seemed willing to answer further questions.

Resentment was expressed by some of the correspondents at the efforts of the embassy staff to keep the fliers virtually incommunicado.

Levine Is Target of Air Mail and Contract Probes

Washington, June 8 (I. N. S.)—Federal investigation involving Charles A. Levine, who accompanied Clarence D. Chamberlin on his historic flight to Berlin, proceeded here today from two sources, the Post-office Department and the Department of Justice.

Postal officials are investigating Levine's carrying a packet of air mail from New York to Germany, while Justice officials are continuing their study of Levine's contractual relations with the War Department.

There have been allegations of irregularities in some of Levine's salvage contracts with the War Department, out of which he is reported to have made enormous profits.

Beyond asserting that his agents were investigating the salvage case, Attorney-General Sargent had nothing to say today.

Postmaster-General New, however, said that Levine was unauthorized to carry all mail to Germany and Postmaster Fred Sealy, at Hempstead, L. I., violated postal regulations in carrying the postal cancellation stamp to Mitchel Field to cancel the stamps. These stamps are expected to have a collector's value of $1,000, being the first air mail stamps to cross the Atlantic.

3 POLICE NAB 9 IN GUSTIN GANG BREAK RAID

nard J. Walsh, Edward T. Mullen and Timothy J. Coffey.

Before Judge Sullivan in Municipal Court, Wallace, Malley, Griffin and LaPalla (also known as Ferol) pleaded not guilty to breaking and entering and attempting to steal. The cases were continued for a week.

ONE IS IDENTIFIED.

When the nine captives were unloaded at police headquarters, Wallace, alleged by the police to be one of the two brothers heading the South Boston gang, kicked the camera of a newspaper photographer and smashed it.

After they had been taken into the Rogues' Gallery and been lined up by Inspector James Claffin, Patrolman Carl Stengel of Hanover street station picked Coffey out of the as the youth who two days ago stole a quantity of clothing in a Hanover street store and escaped in a taxi. The taxi driver reported the incident and described the youth.

WOMAN GIVES ALARM.

A woman living opposite the barber supply house in Genesee street, South End, was awakened early today by the sound of a heavy screen being pried from a window.

She notified Captain Driscoll's station and Sergeant Gillis, with the two patrolmen, raced to the scene. They captured the four men in the alley and later found the five.

"MILLIONAIRE" TRICKY IN GAINING HIS CASH

Providence, June 8 (A.P.).—Mr. and Mrs. Whicenty Smolevicz of this city reported to the police today that they were swindled out of $5,000 by a bogus millionaire, said to be from Chicago, who promised to make them rich if they could show him they were diligent in saving.

They withdrew $5,000 from a bank and the "millionaire" obtained possession of it by having it exchanged in a handkerchief and placed in a cigar box, which on being opened revealed only paper clippings.

Jewelers End Convention

Providence, June 8 (A.P.).—The National Wholesale Jewelers Association recommended that Chinese lambs be substituted for topaz as the birthstone for November and that a more stringent national stamping law be enacted as it ended its annual convention here today. Richard J. Peterson of Buffalo was re-elected president.

W. U. DECORATES SPECIAL "LINDY" MESSAGE BLANKS

Anticipating a nation-wide desire of the public to express congratulations to Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh the Western Union Telegraph Company has authorized a special rate on such telegrams and is making preparations for handling a record volume of traffic upon the aviator's arrival in Washington.

Messages of congratulation will be delivered to Lindbergh on decorated blanks.

Which is the PERFECT FUEL?

Every intelligent man knows, of course, that there is no absolutely perfect fuel—just as there is no absolutely perfect anything else.

The prudent man faces fuels frankly—considers them from all angles—safety, dependability, simplicity, noise, and health—talks with his physician—and then decides on his fuel:

And decides on anthracite.

And now is the time to buy it! Prices are lower than will prevail later—the coal is especially selected. You can have a whole winter's supply in your cellar at one time—and forget fuel for another year.

Anthracite has proved itself. The coal-burner is the simplest, safest, heating device ever developed. Nothing to get out of order—nothing to go dead—nothing to interrupt its generous heating service.

RADIO DIALOG

by E. WILLIAM RADIS

IT IS customary for all important broadcasts to be rehearsed several times before going on the chain network. We went to Washington to witness the President and General Lord rehearse for the Saturday broadcast.

Announcer: "This is station WRC. You will now hear the President's customary radio greeting."

Fifteen minute silence against a background of hearty snores.

Announcer: "General Lord of the Budget will now give a short talk on how he saved $300,000,000."

The General: "Figuring over the Budget . . . I . . . saved more than $300,000,000. Henry Ford just called up saying he found a check for $1,000,000 in his other suit."

Announcer: "This broadcast will be sent through the Red and Blue Networks."

General Lord: "If the broadcast is not sent through the Red, White and Blue stations, I will cut-marital every kilocycle in the radio menagerie."

Announcer: "We now wish to announce an important event. Due to the number of requests sent in, President Coolidge will give a talk on 'Third Term Prospects.' This is scheduled for the late Fall of 1923."

SUES WIFE'S PARENTS FOR $150,000 HEART BALM

New York, June 8 (A.P.)—Trenton Benedict Turck and his wife, Mrs. Avis Paine Turck, social prominent, are charged by their son-in-law, Alden S. Condict, in a $150,000 alienation of affections suit on file in Supreme Court today, with having their daughter away from him March 10 last by "subtle influence." Previously he and his wife had lived happily together, he said.

Counsel for Dr. and Mrs. Turck, in a statement denies the charges and says the suit is "the move of an impecunious man to gain something from a wealthy father-in-law."

O'DONNELL APPEALS FOR IRISH ELECTION PEACE

Dublin, Ire., June 8 (A.P.).—The numerous rival parties in the Irish general election were winding up their campaigns today preparatory to the polling tomorrow to decide the makeup of the new Dail Eireann. The campaign has been a lively one, with a number of Republican candidates in the field.

Cardinal O'Donnell has appealed for peace and charity during the polling, reminding the electorate that tomorrow is the feast of St. Columba.

TAXI MAN MUST RETURN GIFTS TO BARONESS

San Francisco, June 8 (A. P.)—John A. Smith, former Reno, Nev., taxicab driver and one time protege of Augusta Louise De Haven, the former Baroness Von Alten of Austria, with whom he traveled about the country "gathering unto himself as he went her income checks, her automobile and even her furs and jewelry," must disgorge.

This was set forth today in a decision of the State Supreme Court affirming the judgment of the Superior Court of Los Angeles, directing Smith to return to Mrs. De Haven $19,200 which she said she had advanced him.

Mrs. De Haven is a granddaughter of the late Louisa G. Bigelow of Chicago and Boston, from whom she inherited $30,000.

Seven years ago, while Mrs. De Haven was in Reno awaiting her final decree of divorce from Baron Von Alten, a captain in the Austrian Imperial Guard and aide to the Austrian Emperor during the world war, she met Smith piloting a taxicab. Friendship developed into affection and Mrs. De Haven persuaded Smith, who is many years her junior, to give up taxi driving and lavished gifts upon him with a lavish hand.

The couple were here when they quarreled and separated.

PEACE PACT IS UP TO U. S.

Paris, June 8 (A.P.).—The French government, it is known, only awaits a favorable word from Washington before proposing to negotiate a treaty to exclude forever the possibility of war between America and France.

Foreign Minister Briand was much more in earnest than was at first realized outside the French Cabine' when he publicly brought forward the idea of such a treaty in his message to the American people through the Associated Press on April 6, to mark the tenth anniversary of America's entry into the World War.

MARION DAVIES AS 'TILLIE' MAKES HIT

New York, June 7.—Marion Davies is now being hailed by New York critics as a gifted comedienne. Her new picture, "Tillie the Toiler," at the Capitol Theatre, has won over all her reviewers.

Evening newspapers in their Monday reviews of the picture echoed the morning papers in their praise for Miss Davies, who plays, as one critic said, the "Lorelei of the screen." Here are some of the comments on Miss Davies' art:

Laugdon W. Post, in the Evening World, says:

"The search for Lorelei for the screen version of 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes' ended, as far as we are concerned Saturday, when we saw Marion Davies fling her way through the first two reels of 'Tillie the Toiler' at the Capitol. Miss Davies, aided by some very good titles and under the able direction of Hobart Henley, was about as good a Lorelei as any actual human being can be under artificial conditions.

"Miss Davies simply delights the audience with her charming innocence, which, as she says in the picture, 'takes years to acquire,' and now wise methods of impressing the rich Mr. Fish, with whom she becomes acquainted in a cafeteria during the lunch hour."

Rose Pelswick in the Evening Journal says:

"Marion Davies, as 'Tillie the Toiler,' at the Capitol this week, is a riot. As the gorgeously lovely, and gorgeously flip stenographer, who hunts a job after two weeks in business school because 'they told me I know as much now as I ever will,' Marion gives a priceless comedy performance. Sparkling roughishness blended with a delightful naivete.

"Marion, as Tillie—the stenographer made famous in Russ Westover's comic strip—interprets that ultra-modern flapper with the inimitable charm that has made her the greatest comedienne on the screen. The story is a howl."

The Evening Telegram:

"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's screen glorification of the comic strip, 'Tillie the Toiler,' is vibrating this week at the Capitol Theatre with the comely Marion Davies frivoling in the title role.

"The story is woven about the misadventures and peradventures of a stenographer who observes most reverently a peculiar code of ethics prescribed for the comportment of ambitious maidens in any and all except artificial conditions.

"Miss Davies simply delights the South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played 'Double Dummy,' i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding

Although he cannot rebid, Dealer's opening bid of one Heart on four to the Ace, King, Queen, gives the way for three assists to partner, and a game going declaration.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. Declarer can count on making four trump tricks in his own hand and two in Dummy according to the Rule of Eleven, by ruffing Spades. There is certainly one trick in Diamonds, but the remaining three tricks necessary for game must be obtained by establishing Diamonds and establishing the long Club. The Club suit is started first and the double finesse taken in hopes that the third round of Clubs will not have to be trumped in order to establish the suit.

Tricks 9 to 13. The finesse in Diamonds is taken and the losing cards in Declarer's hand discarded on the established Clubs.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self addressed stamped envelope.

HUB BACKS CRIME CURE

6 'Who Reaped $1' Fight Will

OFFICIALS FOR CRIME CURE

William Randolph Hearst's address on crime and its remedies, delivered before the American Crime Study Commission in Chicago, of which body he was elected president, has received wholesale and hearty commendation in official circles of Boston and Massachusetts.

Criminality is abnormal, Mr. Hearst says. Men are criminal either because they have inherited criminal tendencies from their ancestors, or because they have acquired criminal tendencies from their environment.

His suggested preparatory measures four things: Abolishment of capital punishment, as an exemplary force; consideration of crime as an abnormality arising for treatment; employing science on crime rather than punishment, study and abolition of the causes of crime, carrying on taking care that young offenders are not thrown in contact with hardened criminals; and, as long as necessary, continues in treating crime, making it efficient.

"ADMIRABLE," SAYS STONE.

Seymour H. Stone, deputy commissioner of correction and member of the State board of probation, said: "The statement by Mr. Hearst to the American Crime Study Commission is admirable. Of course, power to be prevented by punishment alone.

Story of a Girl Who Asked That Life Should Pay Her in Full

Roen Ross, beautiful and spirited, on a Gloucester vacation meets Michael Scott, gallant young college lad. Roen is 18, with the dream of love opening in her heart. Roen promises to marry him. Michael returns to Cornell; Roen to her job as private secretary for James Burton, manager of a Kilby street insurance office. Roen is the support of her invalid mother, Dearie, and her young brother, Jackie. Burton offers her marriage. Dearie, seeing in a rich marriage peace and comfort for all, urges acceptance. But Roen refuses Burton and promises to marry Michael when he earns enough to support all. The marriage is made more indefinite with Dearie's protracted illness. The World War comes; Michael's favorite brother is killed. He enlists. Roen says she will marry him at once But on the day set for the wedding Michael is sent overseas. He is gassed and returns to America, when an opportunity to go to South America is given him. He wires Roen to come with him. She cannot, as Dearie seems dying. Michael goes alone. The following Spring, on his homeward journey, he dies. Roen, waiting at the pier, is confronted by his coffin. She is prostrate with grief. Jackie comforts her. She now pours out on her brother all her love—living for him. She sends him to college.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

Chapter 26

ROEN studied her pay check. A good salary—$[illegible]. But not enough. She filled a check and turned to Burton. Her heart rapped. She had never asked him for a raise before.

She said quickly in a clear, resolute, almost challenging tone: "You're paying me a fair salary, Mr. Burton. Is it the maximum I can earn in your office?"

He looked at her in amazement. "Certainly not. I'm willing to pay you more—if I think you're worth it. I'm willing to do a great deal more for you than I am willing to do for most of my clerks. I say frankly that I am willing to do a great deal more work."

"You mean you will leave here?"

"Yes, if I can't earn more. I've been working for years. I think I've earned the right to better pay. You're one of my clerks. I say frankly that I am willing to do a great deal more work."

"You mean you will leave here?"

"Yes, if I can't earn more. I've been working for years. I think I've earned the right to better pay. You're one of my clerks. I say frankly that I am willing to do a great deal more work."

He nodded. "And you've given [illegible]

FULLER DEFERS SACCO CASE

Governor Fuller, confined to his home for the past two days with a sore throat, returned to his office today to find his desk piled high with important matters of state demanding his immediate attention.

The mass of documents awaiting his attention now piled here possibly for no less time than to give study of the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

The Governor is feeling fit once more and a few minutes after his arrival at the State House the whole wore himself actively in the executive offices. The Governor indicated he would plunge into the Sacco-Vanzetti case as soon as his desk was cleared of other pressing matters.

Among the Sacco-Vanzetti letters received at the Governor's office today was one from a Socialist, who signed herself "dear." She declared she was waiting for answers when will became Sacco and Vanzetti free.

The Japanese Workers' Association of New York sent a long letter, in which they declared that America was losing its freedom upon which the country was founded. The letter urged the Governor to "stand by the masses" and free Sacco and Vanzetti.

Another letter, written with a red typewriter ribbon was received from fifteen residents of Chicago, most of Italian descent, urging "justice" for Sacco and Vanzetti.

WINSLOW HEADS UNITED SHOE

Sidney W. Winslow, Jr., of Brookline, vice president of the United Shoe Machinery Company, was today elected president to succeed Edwin P. Howes. Mr. Brown became chairman of the board of directors.

At the directors' meeting today the following vice-presidents were elected: George W. Brown, John H. Connor, Moses B. Kaben, Harold G. Ionian, William R. Sampson and Charles G. Bancroft.

Albert W. Todd was appointed general manager, succeeding Mr. Sampson.

we must try to find out what its causes are."

"We already know that mental abnormalities in some instances cause crime. What cause these abnormalities, and how can they be prevented?"

"We also know that social environment, home conditions and community conditions, have a bearing on the cause for crime. What are these conditions? Who is responsible? How can they be prevented?"

"This is a big problem and will require a careful and minute study of the histories of many individuals. Such a study will take a long time and from it we should get valuable information that will aid us in diminishing and preventing crime."

Albert Burwin, former Assistant Attorney General of Massachusetts —"I heartily agree with Mr Hearst in his statement that we cannot cure crim nality by punishment alone. I believe that it must be by a combination of education and punishment; namely by study ng how to prevent crime and how to treat criminals who become such either because of heredity or environment."

COMMENDED BY LUFKIN.

Wilfred W. Lufkin, Collector of Customs for the Port of Boston — "I am sure that every good citizen will approve of the efforts of Mr. Hearst and the American Crime Study Commission to develop a scientific system of reducing the amount of crime which has been so prevalent in certain sections of this country in the last five years."

"Although I have given this matter no particular study, I have long had a feeling that the most practical way to cure, or at least lessen this evil, is by work among the youth of our land at an age when their future life can be most easily moulded."

but with the upper floors devoted to a free dispensary for the treatment of everyone "regardless of race, creed or color."

The children are Mrs. Minnie Lobel, Mrs. Fannie Fenn, Mrs. Estelle Polonsky, James, Max and Louis Gratfried.

The real estate man, who drew the will a year before he died, gave the reason for cutting off his children. The treatment of me I can forgive," the will read, "but I cannot forgive their cruel disappointment and anger in that they did not pay Kadish for the money."

The will provided that an honest old man be found and engaged to pay Kadish for one year and that Lena and her children receive the benefit of Goldfried and his wife Lena.

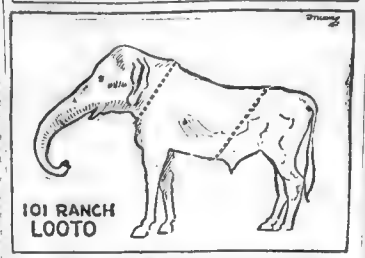
Today's court fight opened before Judge Patrick F. Kenney, the children endeavoring to gain their share, claims that can be carried before a jury. The petitioners claim their father was of unsound mind when he executed the will.

SENTENCED IN THEFT FROM EXPRESS TRUCK

Thomas F. Hoban of Oak street, South Lynn, was sentenced to one year in municipal court today, charged with larceny of 15 bales of dry goods.

Lawrence J. Welch, head of the Expressmans Protective League, charged Hoban had driven the goods in transit in a truck. Louis Berman of Union Park street was charged with receiving the stolen goods. His case was continued to tomorrow for disposition. Hoban appealed and was held in $300.

ANOTHER SCRAMBLER



TRY YOUR HAND ON THIS ONE

"Jeanie," the baby elephant of the 101 Ranch Wild West herd, dreamed that she and five other animals (all of different species) became "scrambled." For instance, she had her own head and forelegs, another animal's body and a third animal's hind legs. Six outline pictures will be printed of six such "Scrambled" animals. Children pasting the parts of the six pictures properly together; that is as the animals appear in real life, will be given tickets to the 101 Ranch show.

Well, well, little Johnnie S. of Malden was the first one to complete the "Scrambled Animals" contest, and the joke of it is, the contest isn't over yet.

Johnnie decided that because he still has "scrambled Animals" which were not six parts that he was all right in the contest. It seems that a misdirected vagary of reading a game plan.

You ought to see the animals, too, I miss up like Johnnie.

There were a pair of them and a couple of spare parts besides.

Anyway, the "Scrambled Animal" Editor set Johnnie right and told him to wait until he had ALL SIX PICTURES of the animals before he sent in. Putting them up and putting them together the way the animals are in real life.

Now, you won't make that mistake, will you?

Watch your step, now. Don't miss up like Johnnie.

3 CHARLESTOWN BOYS HELD FOR AUTO THEFT

Three Charlestown youths who figured in a wild auto chase several days ago, in which police fired shots and wounded one of them, were arraigned in Municipal Court today, charged with the larceny of an auto. They were James L. La ey, Joseph P. Cole and Albert Mellino. They were held in $2,000 each. The auto was stolen from in front of No. 40 Broad street. It was later wrecked in Hilbert a after the youths are alleged to have picked up three girls and gone for a joy ride.

MRS. HURD 4 STROKES BEHIND

Mrs. Stetson, the Defending Champion, Finishes 12th; Miss Orcutt Is Second

By BILL GRIMES

Miss Glenna Collett of Westchester Fairfield, won the Women's Eastern Golf Association championship by putting together an 84, an 80 and an 86 for a grand total of 250, which gave her a four-stroke advantage over Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, the Philadelphia champion, who was runner-up at Belmont Spring Country Club today.

This is the first time that Miss Collett has won the Eastern title. During the 54 holes Miss Collett's playing was steady, but by no means spectacular. Neither did she get many of the breaks especially in the early of the game.

[illegible] during the past three days some of the pars had gone in instead of in one on the top of the cup she would have been under the 250 mark for the match.

It was against a heavy wind in the first round Glenna came through with a fine 84 which gave her a one stroke lead over Mrs. Hurd. Yesterday she increased her advantage six more strokes when she turned in an 80 against Mrs. Hurd's 86, but today she dropped back three, for Mrs. Hurd had an 83 to Glenna's 86.

FORMER CHAMP TWELFTH.

Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, who is the Women's National Champion and was the defending champion in this tournament, finished well back in the field, twelfth, to be exact, with 273.

At the end of the first day Mrs. Stetson was in sixth place with a 94. Mrs. Hurd and started that morning two strokes behind the champion. But in the first round dropped to seventy-three strokes behind the winner.

But the Utica golfer, Miss Helen Payson, after Collett was out in 42 and home in the same figure for an 86, she started off poorly with two fives taking three putts on the second green, and then took a four on the ninth. [illegible]

For the first time in the championships Miss Collett failed to get a birdie on the long fourth, but did get her five.

After playing the fifth and sixth she got home with a beautiful second shot on the seventh only to take one putt for another five.

GLENNA HOLDS LEAD.

After playing the [illegible] Miss Collett got one out of bounds, but by [illegible] she managed to get a five on the hole. [illegible] the 12th she got her par [illegible] and then [illegible] 13th she got her par [illegible] up with a six on the 14th [illegible] three putts.

Virginia [illegible] putt on the 15th [illegible] the more five for her. She was in the trap going to the 16th green and ran 20 feet by the cup coming out, taking a four.

After having up a fine four on the 17th Miss Collett hooked her tee shot [illegible] to the home hole and found a trap in the woods and out of bounds, finally getting a six for [illegible]

Strangler Is Tossed for Loss of $30,000

By Jack Conway

"NOMINATIONS are now open to name a new heavyweight wrestling champion of the world," said Mr. Boston today as he finished reading some of the red-hot testimony which came out of the Chicago wrestling and boxing investigation "As an active wrestler Bill Demetral couldn't score a fall against a one-legged man," went on the veteran, "but as the star witness in the Chicago hearing he pinned Lewis' shoulders to the mat in jig time and made him like it.

"After being on the stand for less than five minutes Demetral socked Lewis to the tune of $30,000 in good old American coin. It is the toughest licking the Strangler has taken during his 15 odd years in athletics. You may bust up a poor but honest wrestler physically and he will only smile gleefully, but when you start bending his bank roll he will holler for the cops.

"Lewis was all set to pick up $25,000 for a bout with Joe Malcewicz at the Chute Pick in Chicago on Friday night. It was the big shot of the wrestling season. It was much like a world's series is to baseball, a Harvard-Yale game to football or a Sharkey-Tunney fight to the grand old game of swat.

"Then Mister Demetral took the witness stand and with his right hand lifted high towards Lindbergh's territory, promised to tell the truth, the whole truth and not [illegible] but the truth. Which was quite a promise for a bird who has kept the wolf off the front lawn by wrestling for 20 odd years.

"Demetral then opened fire on Lewis. He charged that on one occasion he was obliged to post $5,000 and give a quit claim deed to his property in Chicago to guarantee that he wouldn't do bodily harm to the Strangler in a match at Cleveland

Mr. Boston

"LEWIS hopped up and offered to take Demetral to any gym in Chicago and prove he was a liar by pinning his shoulders to the mat inside of ten minutes.

"'Why should I ask a guarantee that a palooka like Demetral would not lick me?' demanded the Strangler. 'I could toss him six times an hour without getting a sweat up.'

"Maybe the Strangler could. Demetral, however, isn't wrestling these days. He's playing the role of the star witness and likes his new role. He doesn't intend to lose prestige by permitting Lewis to kick him around in an honest-to-goodness wrestling match.

"DEMETRAL scored the first fall, while Jim Mullens of Chicago and Paul Bowser of Boston counted with the second and third falls respectively. Mullens called off the Lewis-Malcewicz bout at the Coliseum cage for Friday night. This show figured to draw 10[illegible] grand.

"Bowser then told Lewis in very polite language that Boston won't somehow manage to get along without the Strangler's services until he had cleared himself of the charges lodged against him by Demetral. This cost the Strangler a neat $5,000.

"'I don't say Lewis is guilty,' said Bowser, 'but until no proof that Demetral is the world's champion fabricator I'll have to struggle along without his services.'

"Much like the old Scotch verdict of guilty until proven innocent, Bowser then countered with the announcement that Joe Malcewicz of Utica, champion of the A. E. F., would be pitted against Alexander Garkanikko in the feature bout of the big show at the Boston Arena June 16. Malcewicz did his wrestling overseas with the boys over and wasn't educated in the league of faking and stalling.

"WITH Lewis yelling for air, Malcewicz looks like the best bet for the championship. It will be remembered that after Malcewicz tossed Lewis in a bout at Tulsa, Okla., last Summer, the Strangler's hand picked referee came to his aid and awarded him the bout.

"Apparently Malcewicz is one of those birds who insists on wrestling on the level. That's probably why Joe Stecher ran out of the ring when Malcewicz was selected as the unknown for their bout at the Arena a year ago last March."

Fight Managers Dumb Few Examples Waiting Profitable | Legion Offers Fine Card Simonich Has Class Freeman Is Tough

By Nick Flatley

FIGHT MANAGERS SHOULD LOOK AHEAD

MANAGERS of fighters make a lot of easy money, but we fear that most of them are not at all smart or foresighted. The chances they overlook are painful to contemplate. Finstance, Honeyboy Finnegan and Red Chapman quarrel this week in Brooklyn.

Nick Flatley

The fray is supposed to be for the featherweight title, but it will hardly draw $20,000. It never figured to be a sellout over in Flatbush. It was a natural card for Boston. It would have attracted at least $10,000 more in one of our ball yards.

The boxers get a 20 per cent. cut in the suburb of the big village. Which means that neither will get as much as $4,000. Here in your own city they could have been declared in for 30 per cent. and been sure of twice as much as they have coming now.

Boston promoters begged for the match, but the managers fell for the notion that the shot in New York meant more fame and money. Which, except for heavies, is pure bunk.

Managers do not look ahead. Al Mello, a good prospect, was pushed into a match with Hudkins for a fairly big money offer—$10,000. Al wasn't ready for such tough game by about a year. He could have picked up twice the ten thou against boys in his own class here in Boston rings. And still have been learning.

Mello has been knocked back so far that he may not recover. He took a terrible pasting and his confidence must be rebuilt. That's never an easy job, no matter how courageous the subject. Quick money is one thing, but a dollar in the hand is never worth ten that are sure to come with a little judicious waiting.

LEGION ROW PROMISES REAL RING ACTION

LISTENING to Jack Conway, Tom Goodwin and other ring experts chatter, we are becoming convinced that the Legion has tossed together a real fighting card for Monday night at Braves Field.

Joe Simonich, who battles Tommy Freeman in the main mush, is a husy, tearing scrapper, who has met the best of them and received few real pastings. In his last fight, in Cleveland, he won a decision from Eddie Laine, then champion, but the title didn't go with it, as the row was at catchweights.

Freeman, who comes from Hot Springs, was brought here by Colonel Robert McKinly several years ago. The Colonel saw him work at the resort ring and thought he would make the grade. He won a decision from Jimmy Brunzell here, and then drifted back West.

Tommy is another dough egg, who never thinks of the record of his opponent. He has decisions over Zivic, Jones, and some good welters, and has had two hot wars with this same Simonich.

Simonich Success Both in Ring and Business

By RINGSIDE.

Joe Simonich, one of the outstanding contenders for the welterweight crown, is in town preparing for his 10-round bout with Tommy Freeman which will be the feature of the Cross-cup-Pishon Post American Legion boxing carnival at Braves Field next Monday night.

Simonich is not only a boxer, but also a successful business man. When not training for a bout, the lad can be found on his ranch of 1,760 acres at Big Hole County, Montana. He is happily married and is the proud father of two boys, Joseph, Jr., and Norman, aged six years and four years, respectively. Accompanying Simonich from Montana, to Boston was his wife, Eva, his son, Norman, and his trainer, George "Spug" Komar.

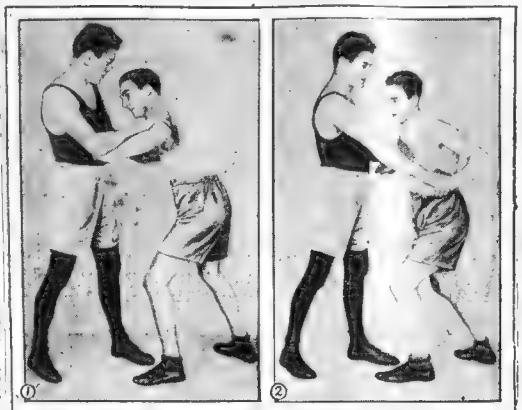
N. Y. RING BOARD UPHOLDS SHARKEY

New York, June 8—The New York Boxing Commission today refused the request of the Illinois Boxing Commission to help arrange out-of-state bouts for Luis Angel Firpo, promoters to the services of Jack Sharkey. Sharkey signed to meet Tat McCarter of Brooklyn at Chicago on March 24 but was obliged to ask for a postponement on account of injuries received in his match with Mike McTigue.

Sharkey later agreed to go through with the McCarthy bout but this was not agreeable to the Chicago promoters who offered a substitute for McCarthy. Sharkey refused to agree to such an arrangement and was automatically released from his tussle with McCarthy.

TUNNEY SHOWS HOW TO CLINCH



SHOWING HOW TO HOLD OPPONENT WHEN YOU FIRST GO INTO CLINCH. SHOWING FINAL ACT IN "HAND-CUFFING" OPPONENT IN CLINCH.

HOW TO BOX By GENE TUNNEY World's Heavyweight Champion

(Copyright 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the eighth of a series of 10 illustrated articles by Gene Tunney, World's Heavyweight Champion, on "How To Box," and which are designed to teach youngsters the manly art of self defence. The ninth article of this series will appear Friday, June 10.

MANY battles are won and lost in a clinch.

If a boxer isn't schooled in the proper way to protect himself when in a clinch, it very often enables his opponent to deal out body punishment, or short hooks, or jolting uppercuts to the jaw, which weaken his durability and lessen his chances for victory.

The strict Marquis of Queensbury rules bar clinching. But modern referees overlook this. They permit clinching, if it is not carried to an extreme.

Therefore, when you go in for boxing, you are certain to become tangled up in answere from two or three to a dozen clinches per round. And, if you are not careful in those clinches (especially if you are meeting a rough, tough youngster who specializes in wrestling and "in fighting," he is likely to do a lot of damage while you are clinched.

The most effective way that I have found to avoid getting into trouble in the clinches, or a method which I am illustrating in this article.

As you will note in Illustration No. 1 my sparring partner and myself have fallen into a clinch. Immediately that we fell into such a clinch I slipped my hands onto his armholes.

Thus, as you readily can see, prevented him from getting a full swing with either arm. But while tied in that way he still was dangerous, because as he could deliver short blows. I quickly dropped down along both of his arms, maintaining a fairly tight hold on the arms, even as I was slipping down along them. I kept sliding down along his arms until I had secured a hold on his wrists, as shown in Illustration No. 2.

It is hardly necessary for me to point out that when I had him pinned cuffed as shown in Illustration No. 2 he was harmless as a fighter, and that he could not do any damage.

If you will practice that method of getting an opponent in a clinch and practice until you have come close to perfection—I am sure that you never will run into a great danger, no matter how often you may be forced into a clinch even by an expert "in fighter."

My next article, which appears June 10th, deals with various methods to be used in protecting yourself from the other man's leads and counter attacks to be used at that time.

Fire Damages Bowie Race Track

Bowie, Md., June 8 (I.N.S.)—Fire early today almost destroyed the racing plant at the Bowie track.

The grandstand, judges' stand, stables and outbuildings were practically wiped out. Few horses are quartered here at this season of the year, and so far as is known none was lost.

Lack of fire fighting equipment hampered efforts to stop the conflagration. The track is just half way between Baltimore and Washington, several miles back from the main pike.

swing without waiting for the club head at the top to start its natural reaction or recoil, what happens is that you actually start going forward while your club is still going up and to accomplish it successfully is a feat indeed. You start forward before the upswing is completed for the reason that you can not possibly reverse the direction of your club instantly. It must use just that bit of time up there to make its turn. Without it you start forward, must be late, and you must try to get down swing, in which the effort should be for smoothness and rhythm. Always keep in mind that to be smooth and easy is far better than to be quick and what you call powerful. Lunging in the body action is not adding power.

Points on Keeping Food Cool in the Summer

By MARTHA LEE

WHETHER you're decided to invest in a convenient, money-saving electric refrigerator or to continue to patronize our good old friend the ice man, the problem is the same—to keep food at an even temperature at as small expense as possible.

Of course the first essential for a good refrigerator is a well-insulated ice box of good construction. The doors should close easily and tightly with, if possible, rubber gaskets around the doors to make a close seal.

In storing foods there's one important point that should not be overlooked. As refrigeration depends largely upon the circulation of air through the box, it's wise not to be crowded so closely as to shut off the circulation.

Hindering the movement of air may make the temperature rise in some parts of the box and thus increase the food content, thus hindering food preservation.

If you'll test your ice chest, you'll find a difference as great as 10 degrees F. between the cold-air and warmest parts of the food compartment. In a side-by-side refrigerator, how the food compartment is kept as the air has just passed down over the ice.

The warmest part will be the top shelf of the entire section of the food compartment. Next will be the part of the food and walls of the box next to the top of the ice compartment. Next all. Keep in mind that all other quick perishables should be stored in the coldest part of the chest.

Now that we have all that [illegible] refrigerator thus bringing the temperature of the food and water [illegible]

The [illegible] will keep it immaculate.

Wipe up at once any food spilled and quickly wash the lining and shelves at least once a week. A soda solution is best made for this purpose.

Wax paper is excellent for wrapping foods such as fish and meat as preventing the drying out of the food and covered refrigerator dishes which can be bought in sets are a great convenience also.

Be sure that small amounts of left-overs can really be used to advantage if you give them space in your ice chest.

Many people are asking me about electric refrigeration, particularly whether the freezing units can be installed in their present boxes. This is entirely possible providing, of course, that you have a good refrigerator, well insulated. The freezing unit really takes the place of a permanent cake of ice.

Once properly installed, never attempt to adjust any of the working parts of your electric refrigerator. The only attention it will ever need from you will be to turn the current off overnight. Another [illegible] month to defrost the refrigerating tank. A pan or small pail will catch the drip.

Many people ask me about the cost of electric refrigeration as compared with the iced box, but it is very hard to make a general statement in the Martha Lee Kitchen. Our bills are very low in spite of our big chest, always considerably less than a dollar a week, sometimes no more than fifty cents.

Of course, the oftener you open the ice chest door the greater the demand on the cooling unit which, however, automatically shuts itself off when the proper temperature in the chest is secured.

If warm food is put in the chest, of course the freezing unit must work harder thereby using more power. Hot food should be cooled before storing and the chest should not be used to hold non-perishable foods which would keep equally well in pantry or cupboard.

The ice cubes for table use and delicious frozen desserts can be made with so little effort in an electric refrigerator, are only a few of the virtues of this type of chest. The preservation of food and resulting economy is to my mind one of its most valuable points.

We never know what it is to throw away spoiled food in the Martha Lee Kitchen. Even milk keeps perfectly for two weeks or longer. Of course, as we do all our cooking in a gas range equipped with an [illegible] refrigerator of our kitchen is confined to low [illegible] [illegible] in our refrigerator with a minimum amount of current.

Although either type standard in a warm kitchen must of course use more ice than a chest in a cool living room.

Next time you're in town, why not drop around to the Martha Lee Kitchen at No. 8 Winthrop square and let us answer any questions you may care to ask about our electric refrigerator or the iced type of refrigerator. We are anxious too, to have you sample the never-failing supply of frozen desserts always in the freezing trays of our chest.

MARTHA LEE.

The Love Slave ~ Opening Night ~ By Homer Banks

THE NEW GUARDIAN ACTS—Corinne had very little time to think of her own troubles during the next two weeks. Her days and nights were filled with rehearsals of "Lava Love," in preparation for its opening. Her dancing and vocal lessons left her weary at the end of the day. Only one interruption occurred in the steady routine of work. A week before the show was due to open, Corinne received a cablegram from Clifford Chandler. Fluffy, whose apartment she was sharing temporarily, gave it to her when she came home. "Love note from your boy friend?" she asked.

LURKING FEARS—Corinne opened it with trembling fingers. "Sailing today for America," it read. Her heart sank. "He'll be here in a week," she told Fluffy. "What am I going to do?" "You ought to be jolly well pleased," her roommate said, "to have so young a guardian. I intend to flirt with him myself." Corinne. "He may interfere with my whole life here—and put me in a convent—or something. Certainly he'll never approve of the stage."

THE OPENING NIGHT—The opening of "Lava Love" came too quickly for Corinne to give much thought to her approaching clash with her newly-appointed young guardian. There were many details to be attended to, but everyone was very kind to her. Before she knew it, she found herself facing an expectant audience. Her dream had come true! A premiere at last! Even in her small part, she felt that she was integrally responsible for the success of the show.

A QUESTIONABLE ADMIRATION—"Flash" was waiting for her after the show. His face beamed with enthusiasm. "You looked great," he said admiringly. "I've arranged a little party at 'Papa' Henderson's. I want you to meet George Palmer," he added. "He was out front tonight and watched your performance. He likes your work and he likes you." Corinne looked frightened.

Foot Culture Will Improve Your Appearance

By Maria Jeritza

THE woman in quest of beauty is wise indeed who looks to her feet and literally takes her first step toward loveliness by giving them the care that preserves their comfort and well-being.

For many years foot culture was practically a lost art, because fashion decreed styles in footgear which destroyed the beauty of the feminine foot.

But modern women have learned that bunions, corns, crooked, deformed toes, fallen arches and kindred ills prevent grace of movement, poise and spontaneous charm and encourage unhappy self-consciousness. Athletic sports dear to the modern girl call for sensible, comfortable shoes.

As a result we are regaining some of the untrammeled grace and poise of the sandaled age of Greece. There is renewed interest in foot culture.

The modern woman of distinction and fashion does not by any means wear ugly shoes. But neither does she force her feet into a size too short or too narrow for comfortable action. She does not wear shoes cut too low to be comfortable on her high-arched feet, and she is willing, if need be, to sacrifice an inch of heel which would tilt her feet out of joint. She will know that with a little search she will find shoes of equal chic which look better on her because they permit her feet to be natural and at ease.

The posture of your feet is of primary importance to their grace. Have you the habit of twisting them round the rungs of a chair or untwisting your ankles about each other? The feet, both in standing and sitting positions, should be placed straight ahead.

Here are three simple exercises which if practised every day will strengthen and supple your feet and add to their gracefulness. You can practise the first two while seated.

Curl your toes as far back as you can, then bend your feet up as far as possible from your ankles. Relax and repeat the exercise ten times. It is excellent for the arches under your instep.

The second exercise, which strengthens the arch of the ball of the foot, is done by turning the foot up as far it will go, then turning down the toes. Practice this also ten times with both feet.

Take the last exercise standing with your feet pointed straight ahead, about six inches apart. Bend your knees forward as far as you can, then return to position. Practise this exercise only five times at first, then gradually increase the number to fifteen. It is especially designed to strengthen the tendon at the back of the heel.

The feet require a daily bath, first in warm, then cold water. It is refreshing to add a tablespoonful of either borax or sessalt to this daily bath. Borax is especially cleanses the pores and removes odor of perspiration.

Dry your feet very carefully, especially between the toes. If you are troubled with corns, bunions or ingrown toenails, by all means go to a chiropodist and have them attended to. At a moderate charge, he will banish them for you in a short time. Then if you care for your feet properly, and wear well-fitted shoes and stockings, you will not be likely to acquire more.

I have not mentioned walking, but it is the exercise par excellence for the feet and, in fact, the entire body.

By making a study of culture of the feet, you can have feet as beautiful as the loveliest hands. And, sturdy, supple feet will add to your grace, health and poise.

Curing Rheumatism in Children

By Chas A. L. Reed, M. D.

HAS your child rheumatism? Has it ever had rheumatism? If so, are you sure it has completely recovered? These are most important inquiries.

The rheumatic infection of children is one of the most killing and disabling diseases of this and other temperate countries.

The number of children who suffer from it is about 10 per cent. The number that actually develop heart disease as a result is about 2 per cent. It thus constitutes a terrific national problem.

It has little connection with the elderly rheumatic conditions like muscular inflammation or arthritis. It is commonly known as "rheumatic fever," though the term is a bad one.

It occurs as a penalty for violating the natural law of infection.

It is a microbe infection. It starts in the tonsils and invades the whole body. It does its worst damages to the heart. In addition to this, it can cause acute muscle and joint pains and can attack the nerves, causing chorea or St. Vitus' dance. "All true St. Vitus' dance," says Reginald Miller, "is rheumatic in origin."

One of the chief characteristics of child rheumatism is the way in which it dies away only to flare up again and in which it smoulders on, damaging the patient's heart without anyone knowing what is happening.

The whole danger in children is, in fact, the effect on the heart. Permanent heart disease in a child is rheumatism, and rheumatism, in such a case, is almost true to say, is heart disease.

The ignorance of even well-educated people about child rheumatism is tragic. Many do not know that children can suffer from rheumatism at all. The reason is partly that the disease is curiously confined to the poorer classes. But perhaps the greater cause of the general apathy about it is that patients rarely die in the early attacks. The child apparently recovers completely. Only a thorough medical examination will show that the heart is affected and that the patient will not live out the ordinary span of life. Ten, twenty or thirty years afterward, however, the early handicap has its effect and the sufferer becomes increasingly disabled and dies an early death.

CHAPTER LV.

TOM WARE, covering the Spook with his automatic, did not for a single instant relax his vigilance.

"How did you get out here?"

"In a taxicab, Mr. Ware."

"Alone?"

"Except for the driver, yes. I paid him off at the corner and sent him on back to Boston."

"Why did you come?"

"I'd rather explain that inside the house than I would standing out here with you pointing that rod at me," the Spook returned with a sort of creaking dignity. "I'm not used to that sort of thing, and I don't like it. asides, you'd make two of me and you could tear me up like a piece of paper if you wanted to with your naked hands."

"Go through his pockets, May and see if he has a gun."

The Spook lifted both hands slightly.

"I haven't, but I don't object to being frisked."

Saliy May Desmond ran her hands over his pockets; inside his coat, up and down his vest.

"I never carry a gun," the Spook vouchsafed during this procedure. "It's not in line with my duties."

"He's clean," May told Tom.

Ware stood aside for the Spook to enter, and put up his weapon at the same time. Moving with his unevn gait, leaning upon his cane, the Spook entered the house, took off his felt hat and dropped it on a chair.

Jacqueline, from the landing above looking down, saw the trio in the hallway below—caught an upward, encouraging glance from her husband. In another minute they had filed beyond her vision into the small parlor off the entrance hall.

Now she could hear their voices, but could not distinguish the words.

Suspense, too poignant to be borne, sent her hurrying into her clothes. Three minutes, four minutes, five minutes and she was dressed. Her stake, in this desperate game being played, was too great to leave in the hands of anyone else—even in the firm, courageous hands of Tom Ware.

Jacqueline descended the stairs with swift lightness, determined to learn at once the reason of the mysterious visitation of the Spook in this dead hour of the night.

For a moment she paused in the double doors that gave entrance to the parlor; where she had expected drama was, surprisingly, a scene strongly suggestive of an amiable family gathering! Tom, in some subtle way, seemed relaxed. He was sitting in a deep chair smoking a cigarette.

The Spook, sitting near Tom, a sombre figure in black clothes and a black necktie, might have been an elderly benevolent relative except for the obscure stamp of furtive evil upon his bony features.

On the divan, stretched out with utter informality among the pillows, May Desmond propped up her golden head on a bent arm.

Tom rose and brought Jacqueline into the room, drew her down on his lap possessively.

"It appears," he told her, "that we have an ally here in the Spook. At least, that's what he claims."

"You might call me a traitor to the man I've been working for all these years—and then again that might seem a pretty harsh word," the Spook told them all. "I've taken my pay and I've done my work—and no questions asked. But I'm getting along in years, and in this business a man don't know when the end's going to come—sudden. If Lupino knew I was out here tonight—he'd probably kill me."

The sunken eyes looked around at the three faces that regarded him so intently. An odd character the Spook, with sinful lines etched deeply on his bony, master face.

"But there might be an end to all things, even to Mr. Julius Lupino," he resumed in a low thoughtful voice. "It's like I was telling Mr. Ware and May both, before you came down, Miss Jacqueline—I drove out here tonight to see if I couldn't put a stop to this last foolishness of my boss it crowns anything he's ever done before. God knows I ain't particular, but most everybody's got their limit—even if Lupino ain't.

Tom's arms tightened around Jacqueline.

Beauty Helps Make the World Go 'Round

-:-

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

THE beauty of women is only a part of the beauty in the world, without which life wouldn't be worth living to most of us.

"Beauty was born of the world's desire
For the wandering water, the nandering fire.
Under the arch of her hurrying feet
She has trodden a world of bitter-sweet."

Someone in love with beauty himself wrote that. I should tell you who it was. But long ago I forgot, though the words have rung in my head since I was, perhaps, in school.

Philosophers have tried to tell the world and themselves what beauty really was. Scientists have tried to pin it down before your eyes, like a poor, golden butterfly on a card. Artists and writers have had less to say about it; they seem more apply indifferent as to what, just what, its body is made of. Because they already know her the best. They have helped to MAKE her. Parts of the beauty of the world has come from their own hands.

Beauty of women is only a part of the world beauty. But to MOST OF US it is one of the most engaging parts. And it isn't always "skin-deep." When it is, however, there is no permanent joy in living with it. That kind is for the passerby to LOOK at and delight in.

But a plain woman, thanks be, can be very, very beautiful when the mind inside her are.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Would you kindly tell me whether it is correct or not to invite a young man to a "social" your club is having. I don't know him as well as I do the other young men, but would like to know him better. Would you advise me to ask this young man?

2. Do you think he will accept my invitation? ANXIOUS.

YES, I should advise you to invite this young man, if you wish to. But I do advise you to send your invitation in the form of a note. That is better than telephoning him the invitation or asking him when you see him. A note gives him a chance to accept gracefully—or to "regret" gracefully, if he wishes.

'Shackled Souls'; Roen Sees Jackie and Virginia Married

ference in the world that he can go."

Burton caught the exultance in her warm, husky voice; saw the smile now till her eyes with tears. It affected him as desolate—as wrong that a girl still young, still vivid and lovely, should take this pathetic joy in giving and serving, in losing herself in another. As though her own personal life was ended.

And so Roen got her heart's desire and Jackie went to Tufts.

It was the night of Jackie's junior prom. She sat on the edge of his bed fixing the shirt, watching with such a twist in her heart as he shaved.

Jackie looked so young—so gay and young. He was twenty, and blushed finding himself so fine.

Tears filled her eyes as she watched him. "Pleased with yourself, lad?"

"Shouldn't I be?" He opened the door of his closet and reached down his hat. "This is a great night, Roen! Greatest of all!"

"Is that dear?"

He drew in his breath—tried to grin, but couldn't. He shrugged into his overcoat, crossed to the door. "Say, Ron, suppose I drop by here for a moment? Wish you could meet her. She'll never guess. Can I?"

She laughed hummingly, tears in her heart. "Oh, do that!"

He had been in love since he was fourteen—or earlier—since he wore his hair in the little horns on his forehead because Irma Eaves admired them. But he had never been so blushing and eager about it. He had never wanted Roen to see the girl before. She felt all through her a melting tenderness—yet she was glad.

Her face had a rapt, sweet look as she sat in the living room at her mother's feet. Dearie scarcely moved from her chair now, her hands were almost transparent. They twined in Roen's hair.

"You spoil him, Ronnie—lass."

"I've been doing that a long while, Dearie, and he's good yet. So queer it doesn't hurt."

"You drown yourself in him. You should not! You are still young yourself. . . ."

"Ah—no, mother. But I have youth!"

Something high hearted and debonair about him as he brought this dark spirit of a girl into the hall; something very gay as he looked down at her and said: "Hello, Jimmy! Isn't she sweet, Ron?" reminded her of Bobby-dad.

Virginia, too, was winning. She had clear, gray eyes and a very red mouth. She had an eager sweetness. When she laughed in a quick careful way her eyes twinkled with humor.

It was plain that she thought Jackie the handsomest and knightliest thing on the earth.

Very late she happened to awaken. Jackie was softly pushing the door of her room, listening, hoping she'd speak. Burning in her what Roen had to say. He came in and sat on the bed.

"Isn't she a dream, Ron?"

"A love—a darling."

"Did you ever see such a pretty little hand?"

"Soft as a rose?"

"Yes, he agreed seriously. "And she's awful smart, Ron. Made a first grade in zoology. That's almost unheard of—"

He began enumerating Virginia's charms. She had character, she had gayety, the quickest comeback, and took what a sense of humor. But that came of the social life she led. Her mother died when she was only four. She and her father were chums ever since. They had wonderful times. The old man, who was a jovial fellow just a little past fifty worshipped her. He gave her $150 a month for an allowance. That would fend many a girl. But you couldn't spoil Virginia.

Roen would have tried desperately to love any girl Jackie brought to her. But it was easy to like Virginia.

The routine of her life went on with a subtle quiet—mornings of riding to the office, evenings of riding home, cooking the supper, resting to leave. Sunday, as quietly and followed day she was unaware of change in herself, unaware of years passing.

One day James Burton said to her abruptly: "Roen, do you ever think of me?"

She was tremendously startled. "In what way?"

"Do you think you might ever marry me?"

"Marry! Why—no—I don't think of marrying anyone." She was momentarily sickened by the shock of this prospect, and the assaulting images it conjured.

She refused Burton gently but without emotion.

He said quietly in a way that chilled her whenever she recalled his look and tone: "Then goodby, Roen. I hope to heaven you'll never feel what I've felt."

He went to New York. His assistant, Gregg Morse, took his place. Six months later Roen heard of his marriage.

She had no regret. It never occurred to her that she had perhaps refused a worthy gift from life.

It was the day of Jackie's commencement. Virginia sat next her. She stole a look at the young girl's eager face. Virginia laughed quickly. They both leaned forward. "There he is!" Virginia whispered.

Roen's heart swelled. There was Jackie tense and quiet in young, nervous dignity. There was Jackie about to receive his degree.

Virginia's hand pulsed [illegible] Roen's knee. She breathed excitedly, her cheeks glowing. When it was over she stood up with a little cry of laugh. "Didn't he appear wonderful! Let's go up."

He looked at his dark spirit of a girl with a warm, adoring flush and handed her his degree to read. Michael had done this very thing. And with the same kind of look.

"They'll wait, too," Roen thought with sudden panic.

A few months after that Virginia's father died. She was left alone in their big house on the hill. She was mute with grief and bewildered with the prospect of the future.

Roen called on her. They sat in the garden.

Roen said: "You can't stay here alone, Virginia."

"I don't know what I should do. I can't go and live alone in a hotel."

"Why don't you and Jackie marry?"

Dumfounded, not thinking: "Take him from you, Ron" Love you?

Oh, I don't mean that. Jackie doesn't earn enough. He can only work in vacation and odd hours. We've got to wait."

"But you have money, Virginia. Later he could pay you back."

She flung out her hand. "Oh, as if that matters! I told him he could if he's that foolish!"

"Then you could keep the house and he could live here. Couldn't he—"

"No—no—we can wait. Other people have to—"

"Because of her they [illegible]

That night she went to Jackie's room. She said: "You ought to be with Virginia. You ought to marry her. She's very sure—she can't live without."

He was standing at the [illegible] stacking some books. "Yes, shouldn't I, though! It will be three years before I can keep a wife—at the earliest."

"Is money more important to you than Virginia's happiness?"

"No."

"She has enough. What a pretty pride you would have to sentence her to loneliness—to positive suffering."

"Oh, Ron, have sence . . ."

She went up and stood about her to shoulder with him . . . "I have sense, Jackie. How do you figure you're helping me to stay on here? Dearie doesn't need both of us."

"Oh—Ron—I did not want to leave you here to this—"

"You can't help it by staying, Jackie."

But he wanted to make things up to Ron—wanted to bring her some chance. Time she had it!

She answered stubbornly, determined on this. "How can you have my life for me, Jackie? You say I was cheated. Way cheat two more, then? That's all [illegible] foolish."

She grew eloquent. Love made her so. She was recompensed when Virginia clasped her arms about [illegible] neck and promised [illegible] adore [illegible] Ron.

Roen stood up with Virginia. It was very quiet—only two friends [illegible] and two of Jackie's.

She looked tall and slender in pale gray dress, lilies of the valley at her belt.

Roen's face was white, but she felt everything—love and eternal [illegible] Virginia's coming life [illegible] Jackie's proud young eyes met hers.

He kissed his bride. He kissed Roen. He said: "Ron — Ron, darling!"

One of the smallest—one of the most terrible and piercing moments in her life.

THE old-time sanitary pad has been supplanted by a new and better way called Kotex.

It ends the embarrassment of laundry and disposal. You discard Kotex as easily as tissue.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, and thus protects amazingly. You wear sheer gowns and gay frocks under the most trying conditions.

Also deodorizes, and thus ends all fear of offending. 8 in 10 better-class women now use it. Great hospitals employ it. Doctors widely urge it.

Most stores have Kotex on counters wrapped in plain paper, ready to be picked up without even asking.

Package contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine Kotex, for only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Home Hints

A sponge cake always looks more tempting if there is a nice crust on the top. This is obtained by sprinkling castor sugar over the top of the cake before putting it into the oven.

Eucalyptus oil will remove grease stains from any kind of material without injuring it. Apply the oil with a clean flannel and rub gently till the mark disappears.

FIFTY-FIFTY IS A GOOD HOUSEHOLD RULE

How half holidays from shop or office shall be spent is the cause of many arguments in homes.

Husband and father thinks his week five and one half days each week entitles him to choose for himself how he shall spend it.

Wife and mother thinks her work is more confining and she wants assistance in looking after and entertaining the children.

How about a fifty fifty deal, on how that half holiday shall be spent?

There should be no conflict about a man's duty in fatherhood.

There may come emergencies in the future where one or the other gets the best of it, but try to give and take equally.

This plan is worth trying out pleasantly in some homes.

Why not in your home?

Of course there are some folk who are never satisfied

But with education comes less desire to be contentious.

Educate yourselves to this idea.

DAILY SHORT STORY

BILL QUILL'S PROMISE

By Saidee Richmond Waddell

MRS. QUILL was watching Mr. Quill put the finishing touches to a speech, as he made ready for his night at the club.

"Well, so long," said Mr. Quill. "Don't act up for me. Of course, I'll not be late—but—ta—"

"Yes but—ta," echoed Mrs. Quill. "Of course, you hadn't better be late—I can tell you that" Alluding to the last lodge night, she continued, "When a married man stays out all night and his wife's friends begin to call her a 'poor thing' and openly tell her that their husbands have been in from the same meeting for hours, well, it's just too much. To sit around play poker all night—"

"Now, listen, I gave you the money," Quill said reproachfully, "and you forget that there are three new garments right in your closet as a result of that little game. I didn't hear so much kicking while you were buying them."

"That's all right," she said. "That time is gone. And, anyway, I nearly worry myself to death. I was just on the point of calling the police last time."

"Don't ever be so forlorn," he begged. "There is not much that can happen to a man."

"Bugs on the man stuff," she said. "Smarter and braver men than you have been sandbagged."

"Yes, but you must admit I never have. Well, so long—I'll try to win tonight," he ventured.

Bill Quill," she cried. "Don't you dare! If I thought you would stay into tonight, you'd never leave this house"

After her husband had gone Mrs. Quill established herself for a quiet evening She was confident of the good influence she had over Mr. Quill. For, she reasoned when a woman can get a man to forsake a game of poker and induce him to return early for her sake, it certainly is because he loves her.

Such nobility in a male should not go unrewarded. It should be encouraged, so to speak, so Mrs. Quill laid her book down and prepared a nice little supper to be served at midnight. Indeed, there are lots of men who take to various things that they should not, simply because their wives do not care to make it pleasant for them at home.

Yes, indeedy!

At eleven thirty she began to listen for hubby's footsteps. At twelve she was sort of fussing around, and at twelve thirty she decided she might as well get into something more comfortable. While she was about it, she put on negligee complete. Cutest little quilted robe ever—a stunning little rose colored contraption covering just a wee bit of her hair.

Mrs. Quill half reclined against an enormous fluffy taffeta pillow, and let one mule half slide from a well poised foot. A picture no artist could paint, she told herself merely because there was no artist present. Then Morpheus took a hand and Mrs. Bill Quill slept.

Suddenly she sat up with a start and looked at the clock. Oh! It couldn't be! Then she thrust her foot back into that mule and arose to her full height—subconsciously knowing what she was going to do. She was going to call that man Maroney and ask him if he was entertaining tonight, and if he was, she would just naturally "tip" him one earful!

Yes, indeedy!

"Hello," said a man's voice in answer to her call. Rather a nice voice too.

"Is this Mr. Maroney?" she asked sweetly.

"Yes," he answered in a smirky tone, and she could almost see him settle his tie. As she paused he said, "Anything I can do for you?"

She laughed. "You can tell me if you and your friends are having another little seance tonight."

"Why, yes," he said, as he cleared his throat, "A few of the boys are here. They stopped in for a little ginger ale, and a little game of — casino."

"Yes," cooed Mrs. Quill. "You are forgetting George Washington. And don't you think you are selfish to make it a stag?"

"Not selfish," he said gallantly "The loss is ours," and then as the men begin to get together each wondering whose wife Maroney was speaking to, he added hastily, "Who do you want to speak to—Carter?"

Remembering that it had been Mrs. Carter who had said to her that she didn't know what she would do if Dwight ever stayed out like that, Mrs. Quill immediately added two and two and found that Dwight—little old angel face of two weeks before, was going to be added to the list of criminal husbands. Here was balm.

She laughed gayly. "Oh, no, I don't want to speak to him. Maybe I will do that later. Just assure me that he is there safe and sound."

"Oh, yes, he is here perfectly safe and—sound."

"Well, good night," she said sweetly. "You'd better send your little boy friends home now." Shortly afterward the game broke.

When Mr. Quill came dashing to there sat Mrs. Quill propped up against the blue taffeta pillow with a dreamy smile on her face. She knew Mrs. Carter's mother was in town and while Mrs. Carter had said she didn't know what she WOULD do if Dwight ever did such a thing, she would soon have to find out WHAT she was going to do. Mr. Quill, not being in on this, was surprised, but he played up at once. "You sweet little dream," he said, and plumped himself down beside his wife.

"Listen dear," the latter began, "I want you to promise me—for my sake—that you will never stay at Maroney's apartment again."

"I'd promise you anything," said Quill feverishly. "I'll never stop at Maroney's flat again — and that goes." Of course the promise was made earnestly and emphatically because Quill knew Mrs. Maroney was expected home the next day. But that was really a mere accessory to the fact that Quill felt really virtuous as his mate rubbed her cheek along his shoulder.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

I Do not ask that I may understand the strange, inscrutable events of life; that I may grasp what Wisdom's self has planned or see the pattern under pain and strife. Too dim and weak, these mortal eyes of mine, to pierce a single thickness of that veil; too dull to trace the intricate design, before such mysteries their sight must fall I do not seek to learn why right may seem to trail its splendid banners in the dust, while high aloft wrong's tawdry standards gleam: I would not know; I only ask to trust! I only ask for faith to see that good in some far, final judgment will prevail, and all these riddles, long misunderstood, at last be plain—for faith that cannot fail!

CURE FOR BAD HABITS

By Lucy Lowell

THEY were talking about habits, and especially about bad habits. Trying to figure the easiest and surest way of curing them.

And one of the talkers declared that a satisfactory method might be that of having someone remind you of it all the time. Someone to say the word which would catch you up short and bring to your attention the fact that you were about to succumb to the habit whenever this was the case.

But another declared this never would do. "For if it's a real habit with a firm hold on you," he explained, "you'll find ways, all unconsciously perhaps, of avoiding this mentor of yours.

"Or, if there is no way of doing this, you will get to disliking the person more than the habit, and his influence with you will be lost."

And another declared that self-inflicted punishment might be a very fine idea. Every time you submit to the habit you impose some adequate penance upon yourself both as an expression of sorrow and as a reminder that it mustn't happen again.

"But," objected his friend, "if you have such lack of influence with yourself that you weakly submit to a habit, why do you think you would have the backbone to punish yourself every time you did submit? That, I should think, would require as much force of character as breaking a habit off short."

The others agreed with this and the talk went on. And eventually they turned to the one who had not spoken and asked what he thought.

And he thought you couldn't lay down a blanket rule; human nature is too varied for this. But he had cured himself of a bad habit by substituting a good one.

"You just forget about the bad habit," he said, "at least you try to forget. But when you feel yourself being drawn into the expression of it you merely deflect the impulse by activity of another sort.

"All habit, of course, is activity. The impulse to do something, that cannot be overcome by the lesser activity of thinking. But if you can engage in doing something of a nature opposite to that of the habit, the impulse is satisfied and the habit forestalled."

His friends thought he was right. What do YOU think about it?

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

IT is no longer considered smart to murder the man you have promised to love, honor and coddle. Like bobbing your hair it is not even distinctive, now that so many women of ALL classes have gone in for it. All the popular fads pass the moment the hot polled take them up.

There are lots of ways to dispose of a superfluous husband without utterly destroying him. You don't destroy your old hats and evening gowns when you get tired of them. You send them to the heathen. Then why waste anything so useful as a perfectly good husband?

When you reach that point where you are tempted to mix toadstools with your husband's mushrooms, it is time to throw away all the revolvers, window weights and dangerous looking pieces of old iron around the house, and buy a ticket for Paris or Reno.

• • •

Living with the same old husband year in and year out, like living with the same old dining-room curtains, does, of course, become monotonous.

A husband's heart may be in the right place; but his hat, shoes, golf sticks and other personal belongings are nearly always in the wrong places. And it is a dreadful bore to hear the same old tune proceeding from the shower-bath, morning after morning, and to skid on the soap or trip over the towels in the same old way, every day.

Still, when you remember what a struggle you had getting him to the altar, and realize how many nice, sweet, lonely girls there are in the world, who have NO husbands, it seems sheer wilful waste to destroy a husband, when you might put him back into circulation again by a mere twist of the law.

Be humane! Be altruistic! Pass him on to some other woman, to whom he may prove not only a boon and a blessing, but a NOVELTY!

After all, there is a reason for the existence of everything—even flies, red ants, poison ivy and HUSBANDS. For everything—except cold waffles and bachelors!

• • •

Conservation of husbands is what this country needs. Let your husband live!

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY

NOW that the good weather is here, most of the railroads are running summer excursions. The average day coach is so crowded that it makes a subway train look like a private car.

A Pennsylvania man came back from one of those trips the other day and rushed down into a coal mine for a breath of fresh air.

HE entered a telephone booth and said he was glad to be back in the wide open spaces.

THE train he was on would make a can of sardines look like a bunch of hermits.

HE made the journey from Philadelphia to Boston by feet. That is, he rode there on another fellow's feet.

HE said he would rather have gone in a cattle car but he couldn't afford that luxury.

BODY COVERED WITH TORTURING ECZEMA

Doctor prescribed soothing home remedy and healed trouble

Eolia, Mo., Aug. 19:—"Some months ago my daughter developed a bad case of eczema which spread almost all over her body. After days and weeks of distress caused by this skin trouble from which she could get no relief our physician prescribed Resinol Ointment. The first few applications brought signs of healing and the burning sensation was less severe. After several weeks' use of this product not a symptom of this terrible trouble remained. I hope others will be helped as my daughter was by your wonderful Resinol Ointment."—(Signed) Mrs. M. F. Downing, Route 1.

Resinol Ointment is also a soothing, healing dressing for minor burns, sores, rashes, etc. Your druggist sells it. Keep a jar handy.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE ☆ ☆ BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN ☆ ☆ BOSTON JUNE 8, 1927

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land; in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

An Enterprising Duchess

She Is Young at Sixty Because Her Spirit Is Young

THE DUCHESS OF BEDFORD FLIES UP TO STUDY EAGLES

The Duchess of Bedford, past sixty, has just returned to her castle outside of London after flying around Europe to "have a look at the scenery and the birds," as Her Grace put it.

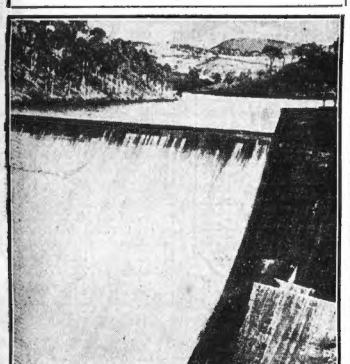
The Duchess finds that the most comfortable, the quickest, most sensible way to see a country is to fly over it and through it.

Besides, on this trip, including Spain, France and Germany, the Duchess desired to get some "close-up" photographs of eagles flying. The best way to do it was to take the camera and go after the eagles, which she did, successfully.

When you see this English Duchess in her private flying machine going off on a flying trip quite as a matter of course, see another picture of a young British bride and groom putting on their flying togs on leaving the church and starting on their honeymoon through the air, you realize that flying is REALLY HERE.

Australia's Water Supply

The British Empire Goes Ahead



THIS GREAT DAM ON THE COTTER RIVER SUPPLIES THE NEW CAPITAL OF AUSTRALIA WITH WATER.

You read about the Duke of York representing his father, King George, at the opening of the new capital of Australia at Canberra. The British in their colonizing deserve credit for one thing, THEY CREATE AND IMPROVE AS THEY GO, and among other things for which they deserve credit, they let the native people live according to their own way and ideas and believe in their own religion as long as they do their work and pay their taxes.

The building of the new capital and of the great dam furnishing Canberra, the capital city, with water, shows the energy of Britain, determined to maintain her empire of the Antipodes, beneath our feet, on the other side of the world. The Duke and Duchess of York visited Australia especially to celebrate the creation of the new capital of that country. This interesting picture shows how the British have made water plentiful for the new capital.

The Cotter River above the Murrumbidge River pours its waters into a reservoir created by this dam, holding 380,000,000 gallons—enough water for the new Australian capital until its population shall exceed 70,000.

In Egypt, in the Sudan, in many parts of the world, the British have undertaken works of this kind. They irrigate and drain, and know how to cause their flag to be respected. Like all nations and all individuals that HAVE anything, the British have what they have got because they WORK FOR IT.

They keep it because they CONTINUE to work for it.

WARNING IN LOSS OF FORESTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

NATURE, our intelligence and the busy-body reformers keep reminding us that we ought to do something.

We neglect it and pooh-pooh it possibly and then comes along fate and hands us a wallop. Then we wake up. The Almighty got tired of lecturing and hectoring people about taking care of their forests. Many a time they had been reminded that forests regulate and control water supply and mitigate the force of streams. They didn't mind but gaily went on pillaging the forests and doing as they ——— pleased.

Then arises the Father of Waters and oozes all over the landscape. Thousands of square miles are inundated. Towns are wiped out and the river changes its course so that river towns become inland and thousands are made homeless.

In another part of the country the wild and frisky tornado takes a crack at human beings. It sweeps across the State of Illinois, chewing up town after town in its wild orgy.

Now perhaps the public may sit up and take notice. They may recall that they have often been told by authoritative persons who knew what they were talking about that the best flood control had its origin in the forests and the best temperer of winds is the woodland.

If things go on at the present rate the country will be denuded of its forests and the wild floods and wilder winds will make more and more havoc.

It is of vital interest that the people of this country wake to the danger that lies before them. It is not a danger to any one class but to all classes. We talk about national defense, fixing up airplanes and gun boats, but the best national defense is to strengthen our inward resources.

This country is not only going to be a sad and desolate place without its forests, but it is going to be a dangerous place in which to live.

Of the great forests that covered this land years ago when there were only ten million population and with twelve times as many people now as there were then, there is one-sixth as much forest supply. That one-sixth is worth now more than the six-sixths were one hundred years ago.

If we are going to save this country for comfortable living conditions and natural beauty we must give heed to the forests.

An organization called The Green Cross has been formed for the purpose of awakening public opinion to the necessity of forest conservation. It deserves universal support.

The railroads use 15 per cent. of the total lumber cut and its consumption is rising. It takes an oak tree 60 years to get tie size and the life of a tie is only ten years.

The newspapers, with their demand for wood pulp, are making constant inroads on the woods. Something must be done and done immediately.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

AN ERROR

It is evident from the number of letters addressed to GOVERNOR FULLER, the bulk of which come from the United States, that many are laboring under the impression that SPRINGFIELD, not BOSTON, is the capital of Massachusetts. Even special delivery letters frequently reach the State House readdressed from the western city.

SONGS

EX-CONGRESSMAN JOSEPH F. O'CONNELL is compiling a list of Irish folk songs which made the bards of the Emerald Isle famous in the days of St. Columbkille some years after the coming of St. Patrick, and intends to ask his sister, Elizabeth, to sing some of them at a recital to be held in the near future.

EATING.

CHARLES SUTHERLAND, erstwhile chef of the YALE training table, is one of the most interesting persons in Cambridge. He conducts a restaurant, but insists that everybody eats too much. He is interested in the civic life of the community and now is working on a plan to have a huge electric fountain erected in the Charles River Basin near the Harvard Bridge.

HELPFUL

SERGEANT "DICK" EVANS, brother of DEPUTY SUPERINTENDENT "TOM" EVANS, has a methodical way in transcribing bulletins for the scribes assigned to the press room at Boston Police Headquarters and it makes for quickness and dispatch in relaying them to newspaper offices. He says his years of experience in that line enables him to cut out verbiage in explaining events of interest to the reading public.

POLICE FAMILY.

Police work has always been of interest to one Weymouth family. Shortly after the late CHIEF OF POLICE PATRICK BUTLER was killed while in the performance of his duty his oldest son, Edward, became a member of the department. He soon became a sergeant and now is a captain. Since that time two other sons, NORMAN and GEORGE, have become full-fledged members of the force.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHO are your relations?

"Why, my mother and father, sisters and brothers, cousins, aunts, uncles, grandfather and grandmother," you say.

Who do you "take after?"

"Well, I have dad's coloring, but mother's features, and they say I have my grandmother Jones' disposition and my uncle Fred's talent for drawing—"

Yes. And so you have a friendly, intimate feeling toward all the people from whom you have taken different parts of yourself, haven't you? A different feeling than you have for the rest of the people in your block—as if a warm, pulsating bond ran between you and them, a bond which no one could sever and which gave you a sort of Siamese-twin attachment to "your own folks."

But you have never stopped to think that that same bond attached you to the old clothes pedlar, to the Chinese tong man and the Malay savage. They too are "your own folks." Nor is that all. Your family is as vast as all creation. You are cousin to the gnat dancing before you in the sunshine, to the elephant tramping down the jungle ferns, to the very earth under your feet—they all are your relations.

You "take after" them all.

Same Minerals

I do not mean this in any ethical sense of "brotherly love."

I mean that you are actually part of them and they are part of you.

You are filled with the same minerals and juices.

You are moved by the same fundamental hopes and fears.

You are subject to the same laws.

There is nothing in you that does not also run through all life—no beauty or ugliness that others do not share with you.

Everything you have is borrowed or shared.

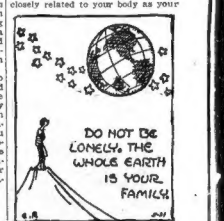
Everything you do is built of something someone else has done and affects something which someone else will do.

You are always going in debt to all the rest of creation and the rest of creation is always going into debt to you.

No matter how simply you may live, you are living upon the efforts of thousands of other men and women. The clothes you wear, the house you live in, the food you eat, the laws which protect you, the institutions which serve you—they have been given to you by countless men and women.

Still in Debt

Even if you could strip yourself of every earthly possession and go off naked to a desert island, you would still be in debt to the creatures of the air and the earth and the sea, whose animal life you share, and the very soil and trees and the sunshine which are so closely related to your body as your own mother, all these would serve you.



Every time you would lick salt, part of your body would cry out, "Hello, Brother." The very lightning that rode the storm would be a part of the same force which is in yourself.

Stop and think about this when you get too proud—particularly if you're one of those foolish people who get proud about "family trees."

Stop and think about it when you get lonely. Say this over to yourself, which Olive Shreiner has said in her wonderful book—"From Man to Man—"

"NO HUMAN SOUL IS AS LONELY AS IT FEELS ITSELF BECAUSE NO MAN IS MERELY AN INDIVIDUAL BUT IS A PART OF THE GREAT BODY OF LIFE."
